Nixon Chooses Spiro Agnew As Vice Presidential Selection

Nixon Tastes Sweet Victory After 8-Years of Drought

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — As the Republican National Convention roll call began, Richard M. Nixon spread a tally sheet across a battered brown briefcase resting in his lap.

He jotted down each state delegation's vote as it was broadcast over the color television set in the circular penthouse sitting room, an aide said later.

The list of states yet to be called grew shorter and Nixon's vote total grew larger.

Then, in Convention Hall

three miles away, Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles stepped to a floor microphone and, shouting above the exploding din, cast the votes that made Nixon the Republican presidential nominee.

"Knowles did it," the 55-year old former vice president said as he turned in his swivel chair to smile at his wife, two daughters, future son-in-law and eight aides who had joined him in the 18th-floor hotel suite.

But the night of victory was not without tension.

After hearing his name placed in nomination, the candidate became so restive that he ducked out of the hotel for a half-hour automobile ride through the muggy Florida night.

An aide said Nixon hadn't been outside the hotel since Monday and wanted "to stretch his legs and get some fresh air." Chatting with two reporters who accompanied him in the baby blue limousine, Nixon said he does not expect to finish his acceptance speech until just before he goes to the convention floor tonight.

Congratulatory telephone calls began pouring in within minutes after he was nominated. One came from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, his chief rival in the campaign. Another was from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democrat whom Nixon may oppose in the November general election.

Then began a series of meetings with aides, friends, congressional leaders and party officials.

One of the first to arrive at his headquarters was Barry Goldwater, the 1964 GOP nominee. Stepping off an elevator, Goldwater said the convention vote went as expected.

"I hit it right on the nose, and said, 'I'm going to teach those guys not to bet me.'"

Coast Guard Seeks 5th Body In Lake Erie

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The Coast Guard was to resume the search today for the body of a 26-year-old Cleveland man believed to be one of five victims of a light plane crash Sunday.

A Coast Guard official said Wednesday William Arth was apparently aboard the plane when it took off from Put-In-Bay and crashed into Lake Erie.

The bodies of three other Cleveland men killed in the crash were identified Wednesday.

They were William Riddle, 24, James Greenland, 26, and Robert Gordon, 25.

The body of the pilot, Len Selders, 25, of Akron, was identified earlier.

Rocky Has Answer About His Future

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, asked about his future in defeat, replied today:

"Little Nelson said, 'Daddy, if you don't win, we can play more together.'"

"I think that's the answer right there," Rockefeller said.

At his side, his wife, Happy, smiled.

RICHARD NIXON makes a big V-for-victory with his arms as supporters carry him on their shoulders at the Republican convention in Miami Beach.

Navy Contract Award to Stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says it won't revise a contract with a rocket-launcher supplier, despite the firm's indictment on charges of defrauding the government on earlier contracts.

The indictment returned by a federal grand jury Wednesday accused the firm and four individuals of feeding more than $3 million through sham subcontractors into Swiss bank accounts.

The indictment also charged the defendants with receiving over a half million dollars in kickbacks from another firm.

The defendants named in the indictment were Chromcraft Corp.; Alisco Inc. of St. Louis; Andrew L. Stone, Alisco's main stockholder and chief executive officer; Francis N. Rosenbaum, director and special counsel; Evelyn R. Price, Stone's executive secretary, and Robert B. Bregman, president of Bregman Electronics Inc. of New York City.

Chromcraft Corp. merged with Alisco in 1966. Since 1962, Chromcraft and Alisco have been the Navy's sole supplier of 2.75-inch rocket launchers.

The Navy told the House Appropriations Committee in March that the launchers are patented by Chromcraft and Alisco.

"The time which would be required to develop a similar Navy-owned item and to get a new manufacturer into production is completely prohibitive," said the Navy.

Convention To Ratify Choice Tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, winner of the Republican presidential nomination, today picked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland as his running mate.

Nixon made the announcement in a brief news conference at 12:40 p.m. He said some 100 party leaders had been consulted.

The selection of Agnew, a onetime supporter of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, was a major surprise. The Maryland governor delivered the nominating speech for Nixon Wednesday night.

Nixon opened his news conference saying the deliberations "have been very thorough on what we think is a tremendously important decision."

He said he wanted a man qualified to be president, who could campaign effectively and who would be able to assume new responsibilities dealing especially with the problems of the nation's cities.

Nixon said he will recommend the convention nominate Agnew for vice president.

Agnew was elected governor of Maryland in 1966 after a term as county executive of Baltimore County, which surrounds the city of Baltimore.

He attracted considerable Democratic support in the heavily Democratic state after George Mahoney, an outspoken foe of open housing, had captured the Democratic nomination for governor.

Nixon won a smashing first ballot Republican presidential nomination early today by bowling over Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Since then, he told the reporters, he had been close with party leaders and speaking with them by telephone looking for a running mate. Smiling he said he trounced a definite right-winger.

The announcement of a running mate had been expected between 10 and 11 a.m. EDT. Shortly after 11, Nixon's communications manager, Herbert G. Klein, said the discussions were continuing. He had a similar announcement a few minutes before Nixon turned up.

Nixon, 55, will be running with a 49-year-old vice presidential candidate. But first the party delegates, at a session tonight, will have to go through the motions of ratifying Nixon's selection. The two candidates then will make acceptance speeches.

Nixon's first ballot victory culminated a smoothly organized for a second try at the presidency. Nixon lost out to John F. Kennedy in a tight race in 1960.

Delegates erupted in a turbulent shouting, band-blaring, sign-waving demonstration when Wisconsin was reached on the state roll call. Nixon had sewed up the 30 Wisconsin votes in a primary and it was those votes which put him over the top.

City Policeman Handcuffs Self

If anyone saw police Patrolman Wes Barton walking down the street here today in handcuffs, he offers this explanation:

Barton was speaking to a group of students in a head-start program at a school and was demonstrating the use of handcuffs. He had one hand in a cuff — the students asked why he didn't put the other cuff on.

He did then realized the key to the cuffs was in his pocket. First he asked the students to get the key, which they did, then to unlock the cuffs, which they could not do. Neither could the teacher.

So Patrolman Barton walked down the street for a distance of five blocks to a State Highway Patrol post where more experienced hands set him free.

TREES, LINES DOWN — Wednesday's severe thunderstorm downed trees and power lines throughout Pickaway County. The storm, which dropped more than half an inch of rain in less than one hour, knocked over this tree and utility pole on S. Court St., just missing a car parked nearby.

Governor Rhodes, Ohio Delegation Left Holding Bag

By DON BANDY Associated Press Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio was true to his promise.

Rhodes ran as Ohio's favorite son and stuck to that position early today on the only ballot needed at the Republican National Convention to nominate Richard M. Nixon as the party's presidential candidate.

But as Nixon wrapped up his second presidential nomination when the roll call reached Wisconsin, Ohio jumped on the bandwagon and cast its 58 votes for the former vice president.

Rhodes immediately pledged his support to the nominee and said "Dick Nixon will carry Ohio in November."

Fifty-five Ohio votes went to Rhodes during the balloting; two were given to Nixon and one to Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota.

Rhodes was swarmed by newsmen asking for an explanation of his uncommitted status. Pounding one hand into the other, Rhodes said, as he had scores of times during the convention:

"In February, we filed as an uncommitted delegation. We remained as favorite son in March, April, May, June, July, right up into the convention."

"We came to the convention united. We're returning home united. We're the most consistent delegation on the premises."

He again repeated he was not interested in the vice presidential nomination.

"I will not accept it. I just don't want to be vice president. I'd rather be governor of Ohio."

Rhodes was under pressure position here as head of the large bloc of uncommitted votes but he refused to yield to any efforts that he feared might split the Ohio GOP.

"We have a unified party in Ohio," Rhodes said, pledging an all out effort for Nixon this fall. Nixon won Ohio in 1960, beating John F. Kennedy by 273,000 votes. Ohio was the only northern industrial state that Nixon carried in 1960.

Some of the Rockefeller backers appeared a little unhappy, but they said they would work for Nixon.

The Nixon votes were cast by Rep. John Ashbrook and Charles M. Cole, who had backed Nixon all along. The lone Stassen vote was cast by Paul M. Walter Jr., who made a seconding speech for Stassen's nomination.

Rhodes was placed in nomination by Dr. John Millett, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, who called him Ohio's "dynamic governor."

The Rhodes supporters joined by delegations of other states, staged a mini-rally for the governor compared to the huge demonstrations given for Nixon, Ronald Reagan and Rockefeller.

Democrats Eye Gallup Poll

HHH, McCarthy Both Find Cheer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey runs better than Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy among rank-and-file Democrats, but McCarthy had the greater support of independents when the two candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination were pitted against each other, the Gallup Poll reported.

The Gallup organization said Wednesday that 53 per cent of rank-and-file Democrats favored Humphrey for their presidential nomination while McCarthy won support from 39 per cent.

But the poll said that independents favor McCarthy over Humphrey by 53 to 32 per cent.

Gallup said the Minnesota senator is "far stronger" with young Democrats, from 21 to 29 years old. He also holds an edge with those who have a college background and Democrats living in the Far West.

Humphrey, however, is stronger with older voters who classify themselves as Democrats in the Midwest, South and East, the poll reported.

Eisenhower Shows Gain, 'Delighted' with Nixon Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors reported today they were pleased with the continuing progress former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making after his newest major heart attack.

They also relayed a statement from Eisenhower saying he was "delighted" over the nomination of Richard M. Nixon to be the Republican presidential candidate.

Eisenhower spent a restful night at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he suffered his latest heart attack early Tuesday, the doctors said.

Medical attendants relayed the word of Nixon's nomination to him during the night when he awoke spontaneously.

The formal medical bulletin on Eisenhower said "Gen. Eisenhower spent another restful night. Vital signs remain stable. The doctors report that they are pleased with the general's progress."

There have been cardiac irregularities since the attack, described as major, Tuesday morning but they have not been pronounced, doctors reported Wednesday.

They indicated optimism over the 77-year-old, five-star general's condition after his third heart attack in three months and sixth since 1955 by limiting medical bulletins to one a day unless his condition worsens.

Eisenhower has not been allowed to watch the Republican National Convention on television since suffering the attack Tuesday morning, but has received reports from his son, John, who flew to the Capital from Miami Beach.

Presumably the general was not awakened to be told of the nomination early today of Richard M. Nixon as the Republican presidential candidate.

Eisenhower, who gave Nixon a lukewarm endorsement for the presidency eight years ago after Nixon understudied him through two terms, came out strongly for his former vice president in a hospital news conference several weeks ago.

David Eisenhower, the former president's grandson, told newsmen in Miami Beach that he had been told Eisenhower's condition was "normal for this stage and his progress is satisfactory."

"We expect he'll be confined for another 40 days or so and then we hope maybe we'll get him out of the hospital," David said.

He said he got this information from his father and added that since the general had discussed politics he assumed "he's doing okay."

Pickaway Jail Escapee Caught In Chesapeake

Larry Donald Robertson, 16, one of the two juveniles who escaped from the Pickaway County Jail, was arrested in Chesapeake by Lawrence County authorities at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Still at large is Allen Scott Billups, 17, of Ft. Gay, W. Va., Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said today. The two youths chiseled through the heavy brick wall of the juvenile section making their way to freedom sometime between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 5:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The youths then stole a car belonging to Carl Manson, 146 Dunmore Road, and drove to Ironton. They abandoned the car there when it ran out of gas.

The two boarded a freight train which they rode as far as Chesapeake. There they broke into a grocery store and then separated.

PICKAWAY County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Deputy George Linder went to Ironton Wednesday evening, returning here with Robertson.

He is presently incarcerated on the first floor of the jail with adult prisoners.

The damage to the cell and exterior walls of the jail is being repaired today by Clyde O'Dell, masonry contractor.

Robertson and Billups were arrested July 24, near Meade and were charged with breaking and entering of a private dwelling. They were awaiting juvenile court hearings at the time of their escape.

The two had fled from the Fairfield School for Boys the day before their arrest in Pickaway County.

Storm Injures 33 at Cadiz

CADIZ, Ohio (AP)—The dining room of the Tappan Lake Marina was crowded with customers Wednesday when a violent storm smashed windows, showering diners with glass. Thirty-three were injured.

"Every window in the dining room was smashed," said Gladys Holleyoak, one of the Marina's three owners. The room is enclosed on three sides by six-foot windows.

Most of the injured were treated at Twin City Hospital in Denison and released.

Four were admitted and a hospital spokesman said two were in fair condition. Doctors were examining the other two for possible complicated injuries.

Most of the injured suffered cuts from broken glass and bruises from rocks and bottles. Police said at least 32 stores were broken into and seven were looted. Three cars were burned and two were damaged by rocks.

Four newsmen were among the injured and a man driving a car with a George Wallace bumper sticker was stoned as darkness but no gunman was seen. The other shooting victim, Cephus Griffen, was hit by a stray bullet as he walked along a sidewalk, police said.

The violence ended after the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, leading his Poor People's Campaign at the GOP convention, and Gov. Claude Kirk, a convention delegate, walked through the streets urging calm and conferred with Negro leaders.

The rally was called for Negroes to plan ways to gain more control of their communities. Abernathy and basketball star

But the youths then began stoning cars carrying whites, looting and setting trash fires.

25 Injured in Miami, Fla. Racial Outbreak

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bands of young Negroes set fire to cars, stoned white motorists and looted stores in a five-block area of northwest Miami Wednesday night in a disturbance touched off when police massed at a rally aimed at airing problems facing Negroes.

Some 25 persons were injured, including two Negroes who police said were shot by unknown gunmen.

About 100 Negroes were arrested, mostly on charges of disorderly conduct leading to rioting.

Trouble broke out in the predominantly Negro area about 6:30 p.m., several hours before Republican delegates 10 miles away across Biscayne Bay on Miami Beach nominated Richard M. Nixon as their presidential candidate.

Miami Police Lt. Jay Golden said both of the men who were shot were in good condition. He said: "The police have not fired one bullet."

Clarence Curry, 25, was wounded as he was being questioned in a looting case. Golden said two shots rang out in the

Convention To Ratify Choice Tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, winner of the Republican presidential nomination, today picked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland as his running mate.

Nixon made the announcement in a brief news conference at 12:40 p.m. He said some 100 party leaders had been consulted.

The selection of Agnew, a onetime supporter of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, was a major surprise. The Maryland governor delivered the nominating speech for Nixon Wednesday night.

Nixon opened his news conference saying the deliberations "have been very thorough on what we think is a tremendously important decision."

He said he wanted a man qualified to be president, who could campaign effectively and who would be able to assume new responsibilities dealing especially with the problems of the nation's cities.

Nixon said he will recommend the convention nominate Agnew for vice president.

Agnew was elected governor of Maryland in 1966 after a term as county executive of Baltimore County, which surrounds the city of Baltimore.

He attracted considerable Democratic support in the heavily Democratic state after George Mahoney, an outspoken foe of open housing, had captured the Democratic nomination for governor.

Nixon won a smashing first ballot Republican presidential nomination early today by bowling over Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Since then, he told the reporters, he had been close with party leaders and speaking with them by telephone looking for a running mate. Smiling he said he trounced a definite right-winger.

The announcement of a running mate had been expected between 10 and 11 a.m. EDT. Shortly after 11, Nixon's communications manager, Herbert G. Klein, said the discussions were continuing. He had a similar announcement a few minutes before Nixon turned up.

Nixon, 55, will be running with a 49-year-old vice presidential candidate. But first the party delegates, at a session tonight, will have to go through the motions of ratifying Nixon's selection. The two candidates then will make acceptance speeches.

Nixon's first ballot victory culminated a smoothly organized for a second try at the presidency. Nixon lost out to John F. Kennedy in a tight race in 1960.

Delegates erupted in a turbulent shouting, band-blaring, sign-waving demonstration when Wisconsin was reached on the state roll call. Nixon had sewed up the 30 Wisconsin votes in a primary and it was those votes which put him over the

City Policeman Handcuffs Self

If anyone saw police Patrolman Wes Barton walking down the street here today in handcuffs, he offers this explanation:

Barton was speaking to a group of students in a head-start program at a school and was demonstrating the use of handcuffs. He had one hand in a cuff—the students asked why he didn't put the other cuff on.

He didn't realize the key to the cuffs was in his pocket. First he asked the students to get the key, which they did, then to unlock the cuffs, which they could not do. Neither could the teacher.

So Patrolman Barton walked down the street for a distance of five blocks to a State Highway Patrol post where more experienced hands set him free.

Nixon later summed up his victory in these words at a news conference:
"I was ready, I was willing and the events were such that the party wanted me. . . ."
The next order of business today was for Nixon to name his choice for the vice-presidential spot.
But first Nixon met again with party and congressional leaders in a mid-morning session that included Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford, Rep. Rogers C.B. Morton of Maryland, one of Nixon's convention floor lieutenants, and Rep. Bob Wilson of California.

Nixon, looking none the worse for wear despite having been up most of the night, arrived at the conference at 9:10 a.m. He smiled at waiting newsmen and said he got only an hour's sleep.
Meeting with Nixon early today to discuss a potential running mate was a group that included 1964 presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, two-time defeated presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey, Sens. Hiram Fong of Hawaii, Jack Miller of Iowa, Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Paul J. Fannin of Arizona, Rhodes and the GOP state chairmen of South Carolina, Florida and Ohio.
Also attending the session was the Rev. Billy Graham, the evangelist.
At the storied 3 o'clock in the morning, celebrated in an old song, Nixon got a call from the man he thinks he will oppose in November, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.
The call came at a time when Nixon was winding up a meeting at which he listened to the views of about 25 congressional and other supporters about his choice of a second man. He was said to have pressed some for more detail about their support of individual possibilities.
Barry Goldwater, the 1964 nominee, and Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii said after this morning's meeting that the nominee listened to a wide variety of suggestions without comment and told them "I'll decide today."

MacGregor, Midwest chairman for Nixon, has been plugging for Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City for a spot. Lindsay says he wouldn't accept. But another name mentioned frequently was that of Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon. Hatfield has been a dove in the Vietnam war, as opposed to Nixon's harder line. He lists himself as a liberal, to the left of the position Nixon occupies.
But there was a long list of possibilities, including the names of both Rockefeller and Reagan, despite their constant denials they would not accept second place.
Among others were Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, and Govs. George Romney of Michigan and John A. Volpe of Massachusetts.
When the initial and only roll call was completed after a wearying 7 1/2 hours of convention nominating and seconding speeches, Nixon had chalked up 692 votes. This was only eight short of the 700 total the former vice president's camp had been claiming for 10 days.
Rockefeller got 287, Reagan 182 and the holdout favorite sons—including Romney and Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio—accounted for the remainder of the 1,333.

Stock List Holds Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held a gain early this afternoon in active trading. Advances outstripped declines by 2 to 1.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 328.9 with industrials and rails unchanged and utilities up 1.2.
The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .96 at 875.96. The average backed away from an early rise of 1.63 due to weakness in some of its blue-chip components. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,250 common stocks, however, remained well ahead.
Volume was 4.35 million shares in the first hour.
Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Fire Destroys Corn Crib, Contents
A fire struck the farm of Clarence Brown Jr., Route 2, about 2 p.m. Wednesday destroying a corn crib and its contents, according to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Office.
Total value of the crib, 2,000 bales of hay, two wheat drills and baler was estimated at more than $3,000.
The fire, reported by Velma Marshall of Route 2, was answered by the Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department. The fire department reported that the crib was completely in flames by the time they arrived.
Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Welfare Costs In Ohio Spiral
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Roger Cloud said today that the cost of the re-organized state administered welfare program is in excess of $17.5 million per month.
He said August financing of the various programs will total $17,618,523, exclusive of the health care which is running about the same as for the last fiscal year—$6 million monthly.

Kentucky Mine Blast Kills 9 Men

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Rescue workers began the slow process today of carrying out the bodies of nine miners reported killed Wednesday in a fiery explosion in a coal mine shaft near here.
A mine employee, who asked to remain unidentified, said the rescue workers had found eight bodies in one area of the mine. The body of the ninth miner was found nearby, he said.
The employee said it would take some time for the workers to bring the victims to the surface because the shaft area was small. The first body was discovered at about 4 a.m. EDT today—14 hours after the accident was reported.
Throughout the rescue operation and the reported finding of the bodies, mine officials, police and other authorities have refused to discuss the accident with newsmen.
The entire area leading to the River Queen mine entrance was cordoned off soon after the accident and newsmen have not been permitted in.
The mine, owned and operated by Peabody Coal Co., is just south of this small coal-mining community in Western Kentucky.
About 300 persons—women, children and miners—lined a road leading from the mine area to seek out loved ones, relatives and friends among those being carried out.
One of those bystanders, a middle-aged man wearing a green work uniform said: "I've been in mining all my life and my brother-in-law is down there, and I know there is no chance."
The explosion rocked a shaft inside the mine with a series of blasts. A miner who had been working in a nearby area, said, "The blast knocked you down every time you got up—just like a cyclone."
Rescue operations, coordinated by the Kentucky Division of Mines and Minerals, began soon afterward.
It was estimated that the trapped miners were nearly 8,000 feet back from the entrance to the mine and about 90 feet beneath the surface.
Initial attempts to enter the mine were hampered by debris that clogged the entrance, thick coal dust and intense heat. At one point rescuers reported the underground temperature in several adjoining shafts and tunnels to be above 200 degrees Fahrenheit.
Rescuers who discovered the first dead miner said he probably died of carbon monoxide poisoning.
Mine company officials refused to make any statement on the cause of the explosion.

Rocky Set To Campaign For Nixon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller promised today to support Richard M. Nixon on the campaign trail this fall.
But he shunned any suggestion he might team with him as a running mate and said, "Are you talking about a spot on the ticket? Don't spend the time."
Rockefeller, now 60, met his third straight defeat in his pursuit of the presidency with his chin up at a pre-dawn news conference.
"I said I would support whoever was the nominee of the convention," he said. "You don't support somebody unless you campaign for him."
The New York governor congratulated Nixon by telephone on what Rockefeller called his "spectacular success" in capturing the GOP presidential nomination on the first ballot early today. "I wish him all the success in winning the election in November," Rockefeller said.
It was the second time Rockefeller watched as Nixon won the prize he had sought. In 1960 Rockefeller stopped short when he saw a convention showdown would be futile. In 1964 the New Yorker refused to campaign for Barry M. Goldwater who whipped him in the California primary and swept a convention that booed Rockefeller when he spoke.

LBJ Fine, Unofficial Report Says

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is described by an aide as feeling fine but there is no indication when a public report on the physical checkup he is undergoing will come.
Such reports usually have been released about the time of each presidential birthday. Johnson will be 60 Aug. 27.
Press secretary George Christian, announcing that Johnson would complete his physical in a brief visit to Brooke Army Medical Center today, said the President "feels fine."
But Christian told newsmen he did not know when the presidential doctor, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, would issue a report.
Johnson began his checkup Tuesday with a five-hour visit to Brooke's extensive facilities at San Antonio, 75 miles from his ranch.
Mrs. Johnson, getting an examination of her own, remained at Brooke all the while. There was no immediate word on when she would wind up her stay. In any event, she has not been confined to the institution but has visited friends in San Antonio between tests.

2 North Korean Infiltrators Killed

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean troops killed two more North Korean infiltrators early today just south of the demilitarized zone, army authorities reported.
The report said the North Koreans walked into a South Korean ambush. The South Koreans seized 43 items of equipment, including two submachine guns and 700 rounds of ammunition.

Reagan Says His Strategy Was Correct

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, whose last-minute try for the Republican presidential nomination fell far short, said today, "There is nothing I could have done differently."
After watching Richard M. Nixon walk off with the GOP plum on the first ballot, the California governor insisted that his strategy had been correct, including his refusal to declare openly for the nomination until just 48 hours before the Republican National Convention balloting.
"I could not have started out as newly elected governor of California and then set out for a new job," said Reagan, who has served as his state's chief executive for just 18 months.
Alternately sad and smiling in defeat, Reagan stepped before the convention and in an emotion-filled voice, asked the delegates to make the presidential nomination unanimous for Nixon.

Sihanouk Holds 11 Americans For Ransom

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk said today he will not free a U.S. Army boat and its 11-man crew, captured July 17, unless the United States gives Cambodia 14 bulldozers and takes responsibility for a helicopter attack on a frontier village that he declared killed 14 Cambodians.
The ruler of Cambodia, speaking at a news conference, said otherwise "I will keep them until the end of the Vietnam war, unless a very important event occurs in the United States giving Cambodia the occasion to free the prisoners." He did not elaborate.
Cambodia claims a U.S. helicopter attacked the Cambodian village of Svayanhong June 29. The American boat was captured when it allegedly violated Cambodian waters.

Convention . . .

667 count necessary for the nomination.

Nixon later summed up his victory in these words at a news conference:

"I was ready, I was willing and the events were such that the party wanted me. . ."

The next order of business today was for Nixon to name his choice for the vice-presidential spot.

But first Nixon met again with party and congressional leaders in a mid-morning session that included Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford, Rep. Rogers C.B. Morton of Maryland, one of Nixon's convention floor lieutenants, and Rep. Bob Wilson of California.

Nixon, looking none the worse for wear despite having been up most of the night, arrived at the conference at 9:10 a.m. He smiled at waiting newsmen and said he got only an hour's sleep.

Meeting with Nixon early today to discuss a potential running mate was a group that included 1964 presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, two-time defeated presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey, Sens. Hiram Fong of Hawaii, Jack Miller of Iowa, Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Paul J. Fannin of Arizona, Rhodes and the GOP state chairmen of South Carolina, Florida and Ohio.

Also attending the session was the Rev. Billy Graham, the evangelist.

At the storied 3 o'clock in the morning, celebrated in an old song, Nixon got a call from the man he thinks he will oppose in November, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The call came at a time when Nixon was winding up a meeting at which he listened to the views of about 25 congressional and other supporters about his choice of a second man. He was said to have pressed some for more detail about their support of individual possibilities.

Barry Goldwater, the 1964 nominee, and Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii said after this morning's meeting that the nominee listened to a wide variety of suggestions without comment and told them "I'll decide today."

MacGregor, Midwest chairman for Nixon, has been plugging for Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City for a spot. Lindsay says he wouldn't accept. But another name mentioned frequently was that of Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon. Hatfield has been a dove in the Vietnam war, as opposed to Nixon's harder line. He lists himself as a liberal, to the left of the position Nixon occupies.

But there was a long list of possibilities, including the names of both Rockefeller and Reagan, despite their constant denials they would not accept second place.

Among others were Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, and Govs. George Romney of Michigan and John A. Volpe of Massachusetts.

When the initial and only roll call was completed after a wearying 7 1/2 hours of convention nominating and seconding speeches, Nixon had chalked up 692 votes. This was only eight short of the 700 total the former vice president's camp had been claiming for 10 days.

Rockefeller got 287, Reagan 182 and the holdout favorite sons—including Romney and Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio—accounted for the remainder of the 1,333.

Fire Destroys Corn Crib, Contents

A fire struck the farm of Clarence Brown Jr., Route 2, about 2 p.m. Wednesday destroying a corn crib and its contents, according to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Office.

Total value of the crib, 2,000 bales of hay, two wheat drills and baler was estimated at more than $3,000.

The fire, reported by Velma Marshall of Route 2, was answered by the Williamsport Volunteer Fire Department. The fire department reported that the crib was completely in flames by the time they arrived.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Welfare Costs In Ohio Spiral

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Roger Cloud said today that the cost of the re-organized state administered welfare program is in excess of $17.5 million per month.

He said August financing of the various programs will total $17,618,523, exclusive of the health care which is running about the same as for the last fiscal year—$6 million monthly.

Kentucky Mine Blast Kills 9 Men

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Rescue workers began the slow process today of carrying out the bodies of nine miners reported killed Wednesday in a fiery explosion in a coal mine shaft near here.

A mine employee, who asked to remain unidentified, said the rescue workers had found eight bodies in one area of the mine. The body of the ninth miner was found nearby, he said.

The employee said it would take some time for the workers to bring the victims to the surface because the shaft area was small. The first body was discovered at about 4 a.m. EDT today—14 hours after the accident was reported.

Throughout the rescue operation and the reported finding of the bodies, mine officials, police and other authorities have refused to discuss the accident with newsmen.

The entire area leading to the River Queen mine entrance was cordoned off soon after the accident and newsmen have not been permitted in.

The mine, owned and operated by Peabody Coal Co., is just south of this small coal-mining community in Western Kentucky.

About 300 persons—women, children and miners—lined a road leading from the mine area to seek out loved ones, relatives and friends among those being carried out.

One of those bystanders, a middle-aged man wearing a green work uniform said: "I've been in mining all my life and my brother-in-law is down there, and I know there is no chance."

The explosion rocked a shaft inside the mine with a series of blasts. A miner who had been working in a nearby area, said, "The blast knocked you down every time you got up—just like a cyclone."

Rescue operations, coordinated by the Kentucky Division of Mines and Minerals, began soon afterward.

It was estimated that the trapped miners were nearly 8,000 feet back from the entrance to the mine and about 90 feet beneath the surface.

Initial attempts to enter the mine were hampered by debris that clogged the entrance, thick coal dust and intense heat. At one point rescuers reported the underground temperature in several adjoining shafts and tunnels to be above 200 degrees Fahrenheit.

Rescuers who discovered the first dead miner said he probably died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Mine company officials refused to make any statement on the cause of the explosion.

Rocky Set To Campaign For Nixon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller promised today to support Richard M. Nixon on the campaign trail this fall.

But he shunned any suggestion he might team with him as a running mate and said, "Are you talking about a spot on the ticket? Don't spend the time."

Rockefeller, now 60, met his third straight defeat in his pursuit of the presidency with his chin up at a pre-dawn news conference.

"I said I would support whoever was the nominee of the convention," he said. "You don't support somebody unless you campaign for him."

The New York governor congratulated Nixon by telephone on what Rockefeller called his "spectacular success" in capturing the GOP presidential nomination on the first ballot early today. "I wish him all the success in winning the election in November," Rockefeller said.

It was the second time Rockefeller watched as Nixon won the prize he had sought. In 1960 Rockefeller stopped short when he saw a convention showdown would be futile. In 1964 the New Yorker refused to campaign for Barry M. Goldwater who whipped him in the California primary and swept a convention that booed Rockefeller when he spoke.

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is described by an aide as feeling fine but there is no indication when a public report on the physical checkup he is undergoing will come.

Such reports usually have been released about the time of each presidential birthday. Johnson will be 60 Aug. 27.

Press secretary George Christian, announcing that Johnson would complete his physical in a brief visit to Brooke Army Medical Center today, said the President "feels fine."

But Christian told newsmen he did not know when the presidential doctor, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, would issue a report.

Johnson began his checkup Tuesday with a five-hour visit to Brooke's extensive facilities at San Antonio, 75 miles from his ranch.

Mrs. Johnson, getting an examination of her own, remained at Brooke all the while. There was no immediate word on when she would wind up her stay. In any event, she has not been confined to the institution but has visited friends in San Antonio between tests.

LBJ Happy With Steel Price Cuts

Says Danger Of Inflation Now Lessened

PITTSBURGH (AP) — After steel price increases settled at more moderate levels Wednesday, President Johnson said the new prices are "a substantial improvement from the general inflationary threat."

Arthur M. Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said the new price levels "significantly reduced the threat of a large and general inflation in steel prices. Compared to the threat last week, American consumers have been saved a half billion dollars inflation."

U.S. Steel, the nation's top producer, made the key move Wednesday by announcing price hikes more modest than those posted earlier by other big firms.

Within hours, Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and Inland said their earlier boosts of virtually all products would be pared down to match U.S. Steel's selective increases. If applied throughout the industry, the increases would mean an average hike of about 2.5 per cent or $4.30 a ton on 60 per cent of the industry's shipments.

Bethlehem, the No. 2 producer, was the first to announce a cut in its previously posted hike of almost 5 per cent.

Although the hikes affect steels used for such major products as autos and appliances, the Johnson administration seemed ready to let them stand.

White House Press Secretary George Christian, however, cautioned: "The success of our continued efforts to combat inflation depends on renewed price stability in steel in the months ahead."

Mexican-Americans Demand Their Rights

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — In the not too distant past, some Texas restaurants put up signs that read: "No dogs or Mexicans allowed."

Things have changed. "Now," says Angela Castrejon, restaurant cashier in El Paso, Tex., "we are allowed in as waitresses and dishwashers."

An exaggeration of existing conditions, this view reflects a measure of the bitterness and frustration helping nourish a relatively new civil rights militancy among the nation's 4.5 million Americans with Spanish surnames.

A by-product of Negro civil rights agitation, the new movement still lacks precise form and central organization. But what is of social and political significance are the first hard signs of unity at all levels, from chili picker to doctor, dentist, priest.

Cradle of the new militancy is the great Southwest, lustrous 19th century frontier, fountainhead of vast modern fortunes in cattle and oil. But to the impoverished Mexican-Americans in East Los Angeles, the slums of south El Paso and west San Antonio and in dusty, blistering hot farm fields of Arizona, New Mexico, south Texas, Colorado and California's Imperial Valley, the vast area could qualify for U.S. foreign aid—if it were a foreign country.

Of this five-state area, Texas,

one of the richest in the nation, has the most backward Mexican-American population. Fifty-two per cent of the Spanish-surnamed population has been classified as "functionally illiterate," a term applied by sociologists to those who have not completed four years of schooling. Twenty per cent of persons over 25 years of age in this same ethnic category have not completed more than one year of schooling.

The living conditions of the Spanish-surnamed population in the Southwest and other areas aroused protest movements shortly after World War II. Deprived of incentive by a postwar boom that left little to protest about, they withered and lay dormant for more than a decade before surfacing anew in the early 1960s.

Affluent businessmen, professionals, college students, migrant laborers, white and blue collar workers make up the ranks of the new militants. They come from an ethnic group whose ancestors were irrigating lands in what is now New Mexico before the first pilgrims reached Plymouth Rock.

Striving for the kind of unity that will provide the most effective political pressures at state and national level, they are demanding first of all an end to what they feel are discriminatory practices in classrooms and jobs. They regard these as the main causes of backwardness among Americans of Spanish surnames. Some of the specific needs cited:

Bilingual education in the primary grades to help Spanish-speaking children who are being forced to compete in English with Anglo-Americans. Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough once described this as "the cruelest form of discrimination."

Better facilities and teachers at higher level schools in Mexican-American districts, and more emphasis on academic rather than vocational training for Mexican-Americans. "The Anglos want to make us a race of garage mechanics and carpenters," says an El Paso college student.

Judge Denies Reservists' Petition

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A federal judge has denied a petition by 113 Ohio Army Reservists to be released from active duty.

In a 14-page opinion Tuesday, Judge Frank A. Kaufman of U.S. District Court ruled that a law authorizing the President to call reservists was applicable to them even though they enlisted before the law became effective on Oct. 15, 1966.

The Reservists, stationed at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., had challenged the constitutionality of the law and contended Congress could not delegate to the President the power to call them to active duty.

Their attorneys contended the men had a contract with the U.S. government under the law in effect when they joined the reserves, and that it was violated and abridged by the application of the 1966 statute.

Counsel also argued that the 1966 law, as applied to them, constituted a denial of equal protection of the law and violated the separation of powers doctrine.

Judge Kaufman said that under the law in effect when the men enlisted, the President was authorized to call reserves into active duty in time of national emergency "or when otherwise authorized by law."

The reservists were ordered to active duty as a unit last May 13, for two years' service. They had been on inactive duty with the 102nd Supply and Service Company in Cleveland, Ohio.

New Guevara Version Given

NEW YORK (AP) — A new version of Ernesto Che Guevara's Bolivian diaries describes 13 guerrillas killed with Guevara as high-ranking Cuban army officers including four members of the Cuban Communist party's Central Committee.

Sol Stein, president of Stein

and Day publishing house, said its version published Tuesday was obtained from the Bolivian armed forces and contains all the diaries of Guevara and three of his lieutenants.

Stein told a news conference that a pirated version put out last month by Fidel Castro and published here by Ramparts magazine and Bantam Books, suppressed the identity of the Cuban guerrillas who accompanied Guevara in Bolivia.

Young Tad Lincoln once invited a group of street urchins into the White House to share his Christmas dinner. The cook tried to shoot them away but Tad appealed to his father who said they could stay.

Mexican-Americans Demand Their Rights

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — In the not too distant past, some Texas restaurants put up signs that read: "No dogs or Mexicans allowed."

Things have changed. "Now," says Angela Castrejon, restaurant cashier in El Paso, Tex., "we are allowed in as waitresses and dishwashers."

An exaggeration of existing conditions, this view reflects a measure of the bitterness and frustration helping nourish a relatively new civil rights militancy among the nation's 4.5 million Americans with Spanish surnames.

A by-product of Negro civil rights agitation, the new movement still lacks precise form and central organization. But what is of social and political significance are the first hard signs of unity at all levels, from chili picker to doctor, dentist, priest.

Cradle of the new militancy is the great Southwest, lustrous 19th century frontier, fountainhead of vast modern fortunes in cattle and oil. But to the impoverished Mexican-Americans in East Los Angeles, the slums of south El Paso and west San Antonio and in dusty, blistering hot farm fields of Arizona, New Mexico, south Texas, Colorado and California's Imperial Valley, the vast area could qualify for U.S. foreign aid—if it were a foreign country.

Of this five-state area, Texas,

one of the richest in the nation, has the most backward Mexican-American population. Fifty-two per cent of the Spanish-surnamed population has been classified as "functionally illiterate," a term applied by sociologists to those who have not completed four years of schooling. Twenty per cent of persons over 25 years of age in this same ethnic category have not completed more than one year of schooling.

The living conditions of the Spanish-surnamed population in the Southwest and other areas aroused protest movements shortly after World War II. Deprived of incentive by a postwar boom that left little to protest about, they withered and lay dormant for more than a decade before surfacing anew in the early 1960s.

Affluent businessmen, professionals, college students, migrant laborers, white and blue collar workers make up the ranks of the new militants. They come from an ethnic group whose ancestors were irrigating lands in what is now New Mexico before the first pilgrims reached Plymouth Rock.

Striving for the kind of unity that will provide the most effective political pressures at state and national level, they are demanding first of all an end to what they feel are discriminatory practices in classrooms and jobs. They regard these as the main causes of backwardness among Americans of Spanish surnames. Some of the specific needs cited:

Bilingual education in the primary grades to help Spanish-speaking children who are being forced to compete in English with Anglo-Americans. Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough once described this as "the cruellest form of discrimination."

Better facilities and teachers at higher level schools in Mexican-American districts, and more emphasis on academic rather than vocational training for Mexican-Americans. "The Anglos want to make us a race of garage mechanics and carpenters," says an El Paso college student.

Judge Denies Reservists' Petition

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A federal judge has denied a petition by 113 Ohio Army Reservists to be released from active duty.

In a 14-page opinion Tuesday, Judge Frank A. Kaufman of U.S. District Court ruled that a law authorizing the President to call reservists was applicable to them even though they enlisted before the law became effective on Oct. 15, 1966.

The Reservists, stationed at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., had challenged the constitutionality of the law and contended Congress could not delegate to the President the power to call them to active duty.

Their attorneys contended the men had a contract with the U.S. government under the law in effect when they joined the reserves, and that it was violated and abridged by the application of the 1966 statute.

Counsel also argued that the 1966 law, as applied to them, constituted a denial of equal protection of the law and violated the separation of powers doctrine.

Judge Kaufman said that under the law in effect when the men enlisted, the President was authorized to call reserves into active duty in time of national emergency "or when otherwise authorized by law."

The reservists were ordered to active duty as a unit last May 13, for two years' service. They had been in inactive duty with the 102nd Supply and Service Company in Cleveland, Ohio.

New Guevara Version Given

NEW YORK (AP) — A new version of Ernesto Che Guevara's Bolivian diaries describes 13 guerrillas killed with Guevara as high-ranking Cuban army officers including four members of the Cuban Communist party's Central Committee.

Sol Stein, president of Stein

and Day publishing house, said its version published Tuesday was obtained from the Bolivian armed forces and contains all the diaries of Guevara and three of his lieutenants.

Stein told a news conference that a pirated version put out last month by Fidel Castro and published here by Ramparts magazine and Bantam Books, suppressed the identity of the Cuban guerrillas who accompanied Guevara in Bolivia.

Young Tad Lincoln once invited a group of street urchins into the White House to share his Christmas dinner. The cook tried to shoot them away but Tad appealed to his father who said they could stay.

In a Circle

In this age of fast jets and space travel, there is a tendency to view progress as always moving onward and upward. But what about the kind of progress that moves in circles?

Remember last year's spasm of enthusiasm for the electric car as a possible way out of the losing battle for coexistence with the internal combustion engine?

Now there is talk of resurrecting — the steam car.

After a 15-month study financed by a Ford Foundation grant a research organization called Resources for the Future has come up with a suggestion that a modern steam car would be pollution-free and an efficient competitor of the gasoline engine.

Technology has overcome the disabilities of the Stanley Steamer and its contemporaries — slow starts, bulk and excessive water consumption. One experimental model is reported capable of getting 1,000 miles out of a 10-gallon tank of water.

The possibility is regarded seriously enough that Senate committees are looking into prospects of a comeback for steam.

What is that saying about the swing of the pendulum?

Watch the Windows

Visit of the Soviet Politburo to Czechoslovakia seemed unprecedented deference to what Moscow once considered a relatively safe satellite.

The discussions were superficially friendly and ominously underlined with a variety of implied Soviet threats. Czechoslovakia's communist party secretary and leading spokesman, Alex Dubcek, in advocating a little freedom for the Czechs, horrified the Kremlin.

It may be recalled that Dubcek had a proud predecessor 20 years ago in Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk. But Masaryk made one fatal mistake. He stood too close to an open window and either fell or jumped, as the police blotter entry usually reads in such cases.

The Soviet version was that he committed suicide. More thorough investigation recently brought to light supports the conclusion he was pushed. Murder by Soviet agents, not suicide, is the verdict now gaining support in Czechoslovakia.

With this episode in mind, Dubcek should be advised to stay away from the windows.

Dirksen's Thundering Tones Rouse GOP Conventioners

By SAUL PETT

AP Special Correspondent
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John Wayne, the elder statesman, gave way to Everett McKinley Dirksen, the old prairie actor, and the Republican National Convention came alive last night.

Rising up from the tundra of tedium and the rhetoric of rigor mortis, it was Dirksen, United States senator, Senate GOP leader, Convention Platform Committee chairman, marigold musketeer, recording star, Peckin's peerless apostle of the new politics of the age of Elizabeth I, who gave the delegates their first incisive lesson in the arts of elocution, execution and electrification (rural).

They began by giving him a roaring hand and he began by saying, "I accept the nomination." It was the first joke to emanate from this year's podium. Theater critics, allegedly Democrats, predicted it would not be the last.

The delegates laughed and continued to make noise. Dirksen turned alternately imperous, menacing, cajoling, bargaining. "Quiet!" he thundered, jowls quivering, silver rivulets of hair flailing, like that of an aroused Zeus.

And still there was no quiet. He held up nine pounds of speech texts.

"If you'll be quiet for 45 minutes," said Everett McKinley Dirksen, the beguiling negotiator, "I'll throw these speeches anywhere you want me to throw them."

And then he did, nine pounds of speeches, right over the speaker's platform, into the hearts of the peasants. While it was not precisely clear whose speeches had been jettisoned, it was obvious Dirksen still had his.

Now the delegates were quiet and the Pekin Pericles, rising slowly from the Armageddon tones of his basso profundo, began. "In Philadelphia 181 years ago, far-seeing men fashioned us a revolutionary new government."

He dared Russia to knock the chip off his shoulder.

"A Soviet leader declaims that ours is a rotten, decadent society. God forbid our having to make the point but, should he try us, he'll quickly find out what Americans really are!"

The delegates roared.

Membrane by membrane, Dirksen peeled off the skin of "The Great Society," stretching out each syllable of the phrase in a mockery of rubber.

"Oh, how cynical, how mocking that political slogan! . . . Never has an undeclared war embroiled America so long. . . . Never our prestige so low, our alliances so weakened, our image so impaired. . . . Never has the nation been so mired in debt. . . . Now we've been rocketed to fiscal outer space. . . ."

"Great Society indeed! . . . It is not a New Deal or a Fair Deal. It's just a straight-out Mideast. Humor it longer, and it will destroy what the Founding Fathers wrought."

Body swaying, finger pointing out and down as if he were anointing the delegates in holy water, Everett McKinley Dirksen, lay preacher, quoted Abe Lincoln, Oliver Cromwell, Ben Franklin, got the delegates up on their feet and repeating after him, "One nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all," and, with lofty tolerance, finally allowed them to subside back into their seats, fully sated with their first red meat although they never did learn which speeches were thrown away, if any.

Percy Champion GOP Cheerleader

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Unofficial champion demonstrator at the Republican National Convention Wednesday night was Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

"I marched in all the favorite-son demonstrations," said the senator with a grin as he stepped off in a post-midnight, placard-waving parade for Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Other favorite-son demonstrations featuring Percy were those of Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Kansas Sen. Frank Carlson, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — By the time the Republican National Convention worked around Wednesday night to the first demonstration after the first nomination speech for a presidential candidate, the two television networks by implication had conceded the nomination to Richard M. Nixon.

They already had shifted their primary attention from the selection of a presidential candidate to a vice presidential candidate.

As they had for the perfunctory oratory of the first two days, CBS and NBC — in their gavel-to-gavel coverage — paid minimal attention to the favorite-son nominating speeches. The floor reporters wormed their way around the convention hall, interspersing interviews with wives and families of prominent men along with purely political interviews.

A favorite question — completely unanswerable — was, "How do you feel about all this?"

It was all pretty sluggish until balloting time. The hard working staffs, from anchormen to the technicians behind the cameras, tried every device to keep things moving. There were jaunty commentary, experiments with off-beat camera angles and studies of delegates—dozing off, eating, talking.

Distressing to both CBS and NBC has been the cool reaction of the general public to their superior efforts. Overnight audience ratings taken indicate that NBC has had over-all a slight edge in the number of viewers and that ABC has increased its audience with its nightly wrap ups of convention coverage. But the ratings also showed

Aircraft Noise Suit Is Filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for some 94,000 residents of suburban Inglewood have filed a $1.4-billion suit against the city of Los Angeles over jet aircraft noise.

The residents, who live near Los Angeles International Airport, said in their suit Tuesday that the noise resulted in "nervous and emotional disturbances of a permanent nature."

The Superior Court suit was filed just two weeks after the Airport Commission won approval to issue $410 million in revenue bonds to finance airport expansion.

MR. MAY'S golf game was so deplorable that he finally decided to take a few lessons from the club pro. The pro led him out to a practice tee, and said, "What I want you to do first is go through your full swing without hitting the ball."

"I should pay you good money for that?" cried the outraged Mr. May. "That's just what I'm doing already!"

An Omaha businessman who made frequent trips to New York discovered a fine new restaurant that delighted him so he brought four of his associates back for luncheon the very next day.

This time the service was desultory, and the portions infinitesimal. In a snit, he sent for the manager and bellowed, "Yesterday the chops here were twice as thick and the service four times faster." "Correct," agreed the manager, "but yesterday you were seated next to the window."

Many years ago, Mahatma Ghandi was ambushed by newspaper reporters while on a mission to London. One question hurled at him was, "What do you think of Western Civilization?" Ghandi smiled faintly and answered, "I think it would be a very good idea."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are salt tablets a good and safe way to keep cool during very hot weather? Everybody seems to have his own idea about the ideal way to do this. Are there any real scientific, safe ways without resorting to drugs?

Mrs. R.W. Tennessee Dear Mrs. W.: Let me first dispel the notion that salt helps keep the body cool. It does serve a very important function in replenishing fluid during periods of great physical exertion. Salt is NaCl, sodium chloride. The Na, or sodium, has an affinity for retaining fluids. The water balance in the body is of great importance to normal, healthy functioning.

It is true that everybody has his own pet ideas about how to keep cool and most of them are very good, especially for the person who uses his own.

A recent study was done by the United States Army Medical Department on the best way to find comfort and to be cool in desert areas and in jungles. It was found that a shower or a bath in tepid, or lukewarm, water seems to be very comforting. This was explained by the fact that the water permitted the body's own cooling system to work, even in these harsh climates.

It is said that the cleaner the skin is, the easier it is for the body to maintain a fairly even temperature by getting rid of the excess heat through the skin.

The body has a remarkable servo-mechanism which is almost like the thermostat in a heating or cooling system in the home. The regulator is turned up or down, depending on whether it is too hot or too cool.

A few good suggestions may make for a little more comfort during hot and humid days. Increase fluids moderately, being sure that fluids do not include too many alcoholic ones. Keep the diet light, with high proteins. Moderate activity, rather than complete rest, seems to adjust the heat loss. This has long been recognized by people who live in subtropical climates for long periods of time.

Is it necessary to remove all impacted teeth whether or not they are causing trouble? My health is excellent, but I am concerned because of a simple statement made to me that suggested I may eventually run

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Repeated references to mandatory wage-price controls by the Johnson administration have reminded business that while the prospects are played down the thinking about them has been almost constant.

The prospect of statutory controls is unlikely, for many months at least, and both industry and labor know it. The administration's repeated references, therefore, demonstrate more than anything its frustrations in dealing with inflation, its lack of a vehicle for holding down wage-price increases.

This week Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz again returned to the subject, expressing his "very real" concern over inflation, insinuating that mandatory controls are a possibility, but adding, "I don't think the situation is out of hand."

This has been a recurring theme. Washington's statements sometimes have been enigmatic enough to cast doubt on what is meant. But one meaning for sure is that the idea of mandatory controls has been explored, very likely with a negative conclusion.

Last November, for example, the secretary answered "poppycock" to a reporter's question regarding the probability of stiff controls. Clear enough.

A few weeks later, in answer to another reporter's question, Wirtz stated: "We're not even in the ballpark as far as considerations of controls is concerned." Again clear.

At about the same time, President Johnson introduced the subject in a talk to the Business Council. Voluntary restraints have made involuntary controls unnecessary, he said, adding, "to this point."

But a few weeks later, contrary to previous assertions, the secretary stated on a television program that "in the absence of a tax increase it would become necessary to consider wage and price controls."

Almost immediately, Johnson told newsmen he did not "hold to the view that wage or price controls are imminent at all." Later Wirtz issued a clarification.

These repeated references, even though sometimes negative and in answer to questions, seem to indicate that the subject of mandatory controls has been considered quite seriously.

But it was felt also that they were simply part of the maneuverings considered necessary to get a tax bill passed.

But now, even though the tax issue has been settled with a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and personal income taxes, the secretary has spoken again.

There are, he said, three ways to control inflation: Wage price controls, unspecified steps that would cause higher unemployment, and third, the use of voluntary restraints.

More unemployment obviously is unacceptable as a permanent solution, although many jobs will indeed be lost through the recent income tax increase. Private restraints as a means of control, it was insinuated, could be failing.

This leaves the use of mandatory controls as the only certain method of the three in preventing inflationary wage-price increases.

However, despite threats, warnings or suggestions, this course is hardly open to the administration. Before the President can act he must obtain legislation from Congress, and such a request is unlikely, barring unforeseen turns.

Jobless Rate Down Slightly
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dropped one-tenth of one per cent in July, reflecting a normal summer season pattern, the Labor Department reported.

The department listed 3.2 million persons as unemployed. This is 400,000 jobless persons fewer than in June, when unemployment rose sharply as nearly three million young people entered the labor market with the close of schools.

More Tests Scheduled For LBJ

AUSTIN Tex., (AP) — President Johnson will undergo more medical tests before there is any official word on results of his annual physical checkup.

Johnson spent five hours Tuesday at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, then returned to his ranch home 35 minutes away by helicopter.

Press secretary George Christian said the chief executive would make a brief return trip to the hospital today or Thursday for final tests requiring an overnight stay.

Mrs. Johnson, also having a checkup at Brooke, remained there Tuesday night. Her examination was being completed today.

Christian said a public report on the President's health would be issued later by Johnson's personal physician, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley.

The chief executive's tests were described by Burkley as "in general keeping with the policy I have followed for the President's annual physical examination."

The President is expected to spend much of the next month at the LBJ ranch, near Johnson City some 65 miles west of here.

Hato's They'll Do It Every Time

In a Circle

In this age of fast jets and space travel, there is a tendency to view progress as always moving onward and upward. But what about the kind of progress that moves in circles?

Remember last year's spasm of enthusiasm for the electric car as a possible way out of the losing battle for coexistence with the internal combustion engine?

Now there is talk of resurrecting — the steam car.

After a 15-month study financed by a Ford Foundation grant a research organization called Resources for the Future has come up with a suggestion that a modern steam car would be pollution-free and an efficient competitor of the gasoline engine.

Technology has overcome the disabilities of the Stanley Steamer and its contemporaries — slow starts, bulk and excessive water consumption. One experimental model is reported capable of getting 1,000 miles out of a 10-gallon tank of water.

The possibility is regarded seriously enough that Senate committees are looking into prospects of a comeback for steam.

What is that saying about the swing of the pendulum?

Watch the Windows

Visit of the Soviet Politburo to Czechoslovakia seemed unprecedented deference to what Moscow once considered a relatively safe satellite.

The discussions were superficially friendly and ominously underlined with a variety of implied Soviet threats. Czechoslovakia's communist party secretary and leading spokesman, Alex Dubcek, in advocating a little freedom for the Czechs, horrified the Kremlin.

It may be recalled that Dubcek had a proud predecessor 20 years ago in Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk. But Masaryk made one fatal mistake. He stood too close to an open window and either fell or jumped, as the police blotter entry usually reads in such cases.

The Soviet version was that he committed suicide. More thorough investigation recently brought to light supports the conclusion he was pushed. Murder by Soviet agents, not suicide, is the verdict now gaining support in Czechoslovakia.

With this episode in mind, Dubcek should be advised to stay away from the windows.

Dirksen's Thundering Tones Rouse GOP Conventioners

By SAUL PETT

AP Special Correspondent
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John Wayne, the elder statesman, gave way to Everett McKinley Dirksen, the old prairie actor, and the Republican National Convention came alive last night.

Rising up from the tundra of tedium and the rhetoric of rigor mortis, it was Dirksen, United States senator, Senate GOP leader, Convention Platform Committee chairman, marigold musketeer, recording star, Peking's peerless apostle of the new politics of the age of Elizabeth I, who gave the delegates their first incisive lesson in the arts of elocution, execution and electrification (rural).

They began by giving him a roaring hand and he began by saying, "I accept the nomination." It was the first joke to emanate from this year's podium. Theater critics, allegedly Democrats, predicted it would not be the last.

The delegates laughed and continued to make noise. Dirksen turned alternately imperous, menacing, cajoling, bawling. "Quiet!" he thundered, jowls quivering, silver rivulets of hair flailing, like that of an aroused Zeus.

And still there was no quiet. He held up nine pounds of speech texts.

"If you'll be quiet for 45 minutes," said Everett McKinley Dirksen, the beguiling negotiator, "I'll throw these speeches anywhere you want me to throw them."

And then he did, nine pounds of speeches, right over the speaker's platform, into the hearts of the peasants. While it was not precisely clear whose speeches had been jettisoned, it was obvious Dirksen still had his.

Now the delegates were quiet and the Peking Pericles, rising slowly from the Armageddon tones of his basso profundo, began. "In Philadelphia 181 years ago, far-seeing men fashioned us a revolutionary new government. . . ."

He dared Russia to knock the chip off his shoulder.

"A Soviet leader declaims that ours is a rotten, decadent society. God forbid our having to make the point but, should he try us, he'll quickly find out what Americans really are!"

The delegates roared. Membrane by membrane, Dirksen peeled off the skin of "The Great Society," stretching out each syllable of the phrase in a mockery of rubber.

"Oh, how cynical, how mocking that political slogan! . . . Never has an undeclared war embroiled America so long. . . . Never our prestige so low, our alliances so weakened, our image so impaired. . . . Never has the nation been so mired in debt. . . . Now we've been rocked to fiscal outer space. . . ."

"Great Society indeed! . . . It is not a New Deal or a Fair Deal. It's just a straight-out Mideast. Humor it longer, and it will destroy what the Founding Fathers wrought."

Body swaying, finger pointing out and down as if he were anointing the delegates in holy water, Everett McKinley Dirksen, lay preacher, quoted Abe Lincoln, Oliver Cromwell, Ben Franklin, got the delegates up on their feet and repeating after him, "One nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all," and, with lofty tolerance, finally allowed them to subside back into their seats, fully sated with their first red meat although they never did learn which speeches were thrown away, if any.

Percy Champion GOP Cheerleader

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Unofficial champion demonstrator at the Republican National Convention Wednesday night was Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

"I marched in all the favorite-son demonstrations," said the senator with a grin as he stepped off in a postmidnight, placard-waving parade for Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Other favorite-son demonstrations featuring Percy were those of Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Kansas Sen. Frank Carlson, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — By the time the Republican National Convention worked around Wednesday night to the first demonstration after the first nomination speech for a presidential candidate, the two television networks by implication had conceded the nomination to Richard M. Nixon.

They already had shifted their primary attention from the selection of a presidential candidate to a vice presidential candidate.

As they had for the perfunctory oratory of the first two days, CBS and NBC — in their gavel-to-gavel coverage — paid minimal attention to the favorite-son nominating speeches. The floor reporters worried their way around the convention hall, interspersing interviews with wives and families of prominent men along with purely political interviews.

A favorite question — completely unanswerable — was, "How do you feel about all this?"

It was all pretty sluggish until balloting time. The hard working staffs, from anchormen to the technicians behind the cameras, tried every device to keep things moving. There were jaunty commentary, experiments with off-beat camera angles and studies of delegates—dozing off, eating, talking.

Distressing to both CBS and NBC has been the cool reaction of the general public to their superior efforts. Overnight audience ratings taken indicate that NBC has had over-all a slight edge in the number of viewers and that ABC has increased its audience with its nightly wrap ups of convention coverage.

But the ratings also showed that only about one of every three TV sets in the country has been tuned to the big show in Miami Beach.

Presumably the other two sets were bringing entertainment programs from local stations—or were turned off.

The intensive coverage, however, has been a cram course in modern politics for those who did tune in. The down-to-earth interpretation of knowledgeable commentators cut through the florid prose of the speakers. It pointed up what CBS' Roger Mudd at one point called efforts to get "sleazy publicity," presumably meaning delegates' efforts to slip in little plugs for their home states.

A recent study was done by the United States Army Medical Department on the best way to find comfort and to be cool in desert areas and in jungles. It was found that a shower or a bath in tepid, or lukewarm, water seems to be very comforting. This was explained by the fact that the water permitted the body's own cooling system to work, even in these harsh climates.

It is said that the cleaner the skin is, the easier it is for the body to maintain a fairly even temperature by getting rid of the excess heat through the skin.

The body has a remarkable servo-mechanism which is almost like the thermostat in a heating or cooling system in the home. The regulator is turned up or down, depending on whether it is too hot or too cool.

A few good suggestions may make for a little more comfort during hot and humid days. Increase fluids moderately, being sure that fluids do not include too many alcoholic ones. Keep the diet light, with high proteins. Moderate activity, rather than complete rest, seems to adjust the heat loss. This has long been recognized by people who live in subtropical climates for long periods of time.

MR. MAY'S golf game was so deplorable that he finally decided to take a few lessons from the club pro. The pro led him out to a practice tee, and said, "What I want you to do first is go through your full swing without hitting the ball." "I should pay you good money for that?" cried the outraged Mr. May. "That's just what I'm doing already!"

An Omaha businessman who made frequent trips to New York discovered a fine new restaurant that delighted him so he brought four of his associates back for luncheon the very next day.

This time the service was desultory, and the portions infinitesimal. In a snit, he sent for the manager and bellowed, "Yesterday the chops here were twice as thick and the service four times faster." "Correct," agreed the manager, "but yesterday you were seated next to the window."

Many years ago, Mahatma Gandhi was ambushed by newspaper reporters while on a mission to London. One question hurled at him was, "What do you think of Western Civilization?" Gandhi smiled faintly and answered, "I think it would be a very good idea."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Are salt tablets a good and safe way to keep cool during very hot weather? Everybody seems to have his own idea about the ideal way to do this. Are there any real scientific, safe ways without resorting to drugs?

Mrs. R.W. Tennessee Dear Mrs. W.: Let me first dispel the notion that salt helps keep the body cool. It does serve a very important function in replenishing fluid during periods of great physical exertion. Salt is NaCl, sodium chloride. The Na, or sodium, has an affinity for retaining fluids. The water balance in the body is of great importance to normal, healthy functioning.

It is true that everybody has his own pet ideas about how to keep cool and most of them are very good, especially for the person who uses his own. A recent study was done by the United States Army Medical Department on the best way to find comfort and to be cool in desert areas and in jungles. It was found that a shower or a bath in tepid, or lukewarm, water seems to be very comforting. This was explained by the fact that the water permitted the body's own cooling system to work, even in these harsh climates.

It is said that the cleaner the skin is, the easier it is for the body to maintain a fairly even temperature by getting rid of the excess heat through the skin.

Is it necessary to remove all impacted teeth whether or not they are causing trouble? My health is excellent, but I am concerned because of a simple statement made to me that suggested I may eventually run into trouble. I don't know how since I am already fifty-four years old.

Mr. N.H., Kansas Dear Mr. H.: Few statements induce more fear in people than prophecies about their health. If you are not now in trouble and have had no previous difficulty with your impacted teeth, I agree completely that no one can foretell if ever they will bother you.

If impacted teeth are a source of infection, or if they impinge on nerves and cause distress, or if they affect good dentition, the general feeling is that past the age of forty, impacted teeth are best left alone. This generalization of course does not have validity in specific cases. The dental surgeon, today, carefully evaluates each case and comes to a mature medical decision before suggesting surgery. His judgment and his knowledge about your dental condition places him in the best position to make a discriminating decision about the removal of impacted teeth.

Dolphins, or porpoises, by nature are friendly creatures. That's given fresh proof by the fact they really want to talk to us mere humans.

Dolphins are miniature whales but today they are looming bigger and bigger in interest of the scientific world.

The scientists report progress in deciphering the dolphin languages. However, the porpoises are so smart we wouldn't be surprised if they learned to talk English before we humans mastered dolphins.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Repeated references to mandatory wage-price controls by the Johnson administration have reminded business that while the prospects are played down the thinking about them has been almost constant.

The prospect of statutory controls is unlikely, for many months at least, and both industry and labor know it. The administration's repeated references, therefore, demonstrate more than anything its frustrations in dealing with inflation, its lack of a vehicle for holding down wage-price increases.

This week Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz again returned to the subject, expressing his "very real" concern over inflation, insinuating that mandatory controls are a possibility, but adding, "I don't think the situation is out of hand."

This has been a recurring theme. Washington's statements sometimes have been enigmatic enough to cast doubt on what is meant. But one meaning for sure is that the idea of mandatory controls has been explored, very likely with a negative conclusion.

Last November, for example, the secretary answered "poppycock" to a reporter's question regarding the probability of stiff controls. Clear enough.

A few weeks later, in answer to another reporter's question, Wirtz stated: "We're not even in the ballpark as far as considerations of controls is concerned." Again clear.

At about the same time, President Johnson introduced the subject in a talk to the Business Council. Voluntary restraints have made involuntary controls unnecessary, he said, adding, "to this point."

But a few weeks later, contrary to previous assertions, the secretary stated on a television program that "in the absence of a tax increase it would become necessary to consider wage and price controls."

Almost immediately, Johnson told newsmen he did not "hold to the view that wage or price controls are imminent at all." Later Wirtz issued a clarification.

These repeated references, even though sometimes negative and in answer to questions, seem to indicate that the subject of mandatory controls has been considered quite seriously.

But it was felt also that they were simply part of the maneuverings considered necessary to get a tax bill passed.

But now, even though the tax issue has been settled with a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and personal income taxes, the secretary has spoken again.

There are, he said, three ways to control inflation: Wage price controls, unspecified steps that would cause higher unemployment, and third, the use of voluntary restraints.

More unemployment obviously is unacceptable as a permanent solution, although many jobs will indeed be lost through the recent income tax increase. Private restraints as a means of control, it was insinuated, could be failing.

This leaves the use of mandatory controls as the only certain method of the three in preventing inflationary wage-price increases.

However, despite threats, warnings or suggestions, this course is hardly open to the administration. Before the President can act he must obtain legislation from Congress, and such a request is unlikely, barring unforeseen turns.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Mondays are not only a bore — they're also dangerous. An insurance company has found that more accidents on the job occur on Monday than any other day. The second most dangerous work day is Friday.

To cut down on the cost of cowboys, Japanese ranchers in mountainous areas are experimenting with sound waves to control their cattle herds. So far the high frequency sounds, which to the human ear resemble the echo of church bells, have been used to lure the cattle to feeding stations. But if they don't get fed, the cattle quit responding to the sounds.

Are you over 40, overweight and related to a diabetic? Then perhaps you should follow medical urging and take a simple test for diabetes yourself. It is estimated that some 1.6 million Americans probably are suffering from undiagnosed diabetes and by going without treatment may shorten their lives or risk blindness.

The boom in women's wigs has been followed by a boom in the men's hairpiece industry. Last year 100,000 balding U.S. men bought toupees or other forms of hirsute cranial adornment, and some 125,000 are expected to follow suit this year.

Quotable notables: "Life is not so bad if you have plenty of luck, a good physique, and not too much imagination." — Christopher Isherwood.

Menace on wheels: Some 53,000 persons died in traffic accidents in this country during 1967, notes the Automobile Ligation Association, or about the total number of American lives lost in combat during World War I.

Jobless Rate Down Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate dropped one-tenth of one per cent in July, reflecting a normal summer season pattern, the Labor Department reported.

The department listed 3.2 million persons as unemployed. This is 400,000 jobless persons fewer than in June, when unemployment rose sharply as nearly three million young people entered the labor market with the close of schools.

Sleep tip: Firm mattresses are restful, but not if they are too firm. A study found that sleepers on unduly hard mattresses changed positions every eight minutes, compared to a normal turnover rate of once every 12 minutes.

What is the best time of year for a child to begin taking piano lessons? Well, for one reason or another, most parents launch the musical career of their offspring in September, when school opens again.

America fears a future water shortage. But, according to the National Geographic Society, there is more fresh water hidden in the seeming dry earth than exists in all the nation's rivers, ponds, lakes and reservoirs. The problem is to get it out. At present about a fifth of all the water we use comes from underground sources.

Worth remembering: "The nicest thing about being bald is that when company comes all you have to do is straighten your tie."

Miss Regina Mae Fana, John Joseph Ryan Are Wed

MRS. JOHN JOSEPH RYAN JR.

Father Francis Dietz, S.J., performed the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Regina Mae Therese Fana and John Joseph Ryan Jr., 11 a.m. Saturday, August 3, in Gesu Church, University Heights, Cleveland. Large bouquets of gladioli with touches of pink and ferns decorated the altar. Flowers held with bows adorned the pews. A program of nuptial music preceded the ceremony.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Fana, Beachwood, was escorted to the altar by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ryan Sr., 464 Edward Road.

The former Miss Fana chose for her wedding a gown of English net appliqued with Alencon lace throughout with a detachable train of the same material, stand-up collar, bell sleeves, empire waist and slight A-line skirt. Her elbow length mantilla of illusion was applique with Alencon lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids with pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Anthony Viola of Lyndhurst, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a light pink silk organza full length gown with long sleeves and a flounce at the hemline. Mrs. Salvatore Fana, sister-in-law of the bride was bridesmatron and Miss Judith and Miss Jeanne Ryan, sisters of the groom were bridesmaids. Their gowns were fashioned like the matron of honor's. The attendants carried colonial bouquets of carnations and sweetheart roses, ranging from white to hot pink in color.

Best man was Anthony J. Viola and ushers were Salvatore Fana, James Schlegler and John Malain.

Mrs. Fana wore a pale yellow re-embroidered Alencon lace sheath dress with matching headpiece and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids. Mrs. Ryan was attired in an aqua sheath dress with jeweled neckline and matching headpiece. Her corsage was also of orchids. A reception at the Holiday Inn, Shaker Heights, immediately followed the Mass. The decor was in shades of pink with pink tablecloths, white chairs, a centerpiece of cherubs and a pedestal with a floral arrangement. The bride's table held a centerpiece of flowers ranging from pale to deep pink tones.

For a wedding trip to the Poconos, the bride wore a coattress of red, white and blue linen.

The bride is a graduate of Beaumont School for Girls and the University of Dayton. She taught this past year at Shaker Heights and will teach the second grade at Nicholas Drive Elementary School in Circleville.

Mr. Ryan attended Ohio State University and is presently majoring in industrial management at Franklin University in Columbus. He is assistant advertising manager of The Circleville Herald.

The couple will reside on Plaza Drive in Circleville.

Complete Model Rooms With Total Decor Look

By ELEANOR ROSS
Torn by indecision over furnishing your home, or doing over a room?
Some stores now show fully coordinated model rooms to mitigate these painful shopping woes.

Cleverly Illustrated
The vast differences between furnishing and decorating are cleverly illustrated by imaginative yet practical displays coordinated right down to the last throw-pillow to give the consumer inspiration and help solve the decorating - buying problems. This display technique interprets and visibly explains the "total" look in decorating - defined as a tasteful mixture of furniture and accessories that harmonize but do not necessarily match.

To make things even easier for consumers, furniture manufacturers present them with a ready-made mix of furniture for an entire room, including even such accessories as ash trays. This decorating short-cut is seen in all types of furniture collection from traditional interpretations to the most avant-garde modern.

If the shopper is starting from scratch, she may buy everything in the model bedroom, for instance, including the king size bed with the super-comfortable latex foam mattress.

Sofa Selection
Or if she has her living room pretty well figured out, she may settle for that large all-over tufted sofa that melds so smoothly with the contemporary furniture in the model room. She may not have considered an ottoman but it looks so irresistible in the store's model living room. She realizes that this is what her room needs. Or she may have the same thought about that etagere with bamboo turnings.

Model rooms in stores, when well done and not just "conversation pieces," help familiarize the consumer with the new fall furniture styles and show her how and where to use them to their best advantage. They will introduce her to the new Mediterranean designs that are enjoying a well-deserved surge of popularity. Since they encompass a variety of styles, both contemporary and traditional, they are excellent mixers, blending easily with existing furniture pieces.

The shopper will be exposed to the beauty of Oriental touches in caning, bamboo trim, lacquered chests and screens. Far Eastern in derivation.

Trend Noted
She will note the "mixability" of see-through tables with burnished metal underpinnings and other new pieces. She will be interested in the elegance of formal French furniture with its up-dated fabrics in fresh pastel tones and lush velvets; the sumptuously comfortable sofas and lounge chairs with the new soft-edge welt treatment, their curvy silhouettes softly plump with latex foam cushioning.

If the shopper is in search of modern design, she will find showcase rooms filled with wonderful designs and ideas. She will see marvelous accessories such as mirrors reflecting the new furniture designs; clocks that set a new tempo in a miscellany of design that ranges from earliest time to modern whimsy.

Underfoot Brilliance
She will admire the lush new carpets in brilliant hues and flashing prints, many of them backed with high density latex foam for heavy traffic areas such as family rooms, baths and even kitchens.

Windows will show new tricks and treatments, presenting the customer with an on-scene view of the latest window dressing, from the custom look of shades that coordinate with the room decor, to draperies designed to solve ever-present window problems.

Modern rooms will be a rich source of ideas and inspiration to the homemaker this season even if she is only in the market for the latest trend in picture arrangement.

MRS. PALMER EARL NEUMEISTER

Miss Sylvia C. Langfitt Weds Palmer Neumeister

The Rev. Paul Mercer and the Rev. Herman Stewart performed the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Sylvia Constance Langfitt and Palmer Earl Neumeister. The nuptial vows were repeated 2 p.m. July 13, in the Campus Church of Christ in Christian Union before the altar adorned with baskets of gladioli and two 7-branch candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Langfitt, London, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Neumeister, Hedges, Pa.

Mrs. Donald Brown, organist, accompanied Miss Eunice Rooper, vocalist, for a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride approached the altar in a full length gown of white chiffon accented with lace insets. The fitted bodice and lace sleeves were highlighted with seed pearls. Her elbow length illusion veil was caught to a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and red baby rosebuds with satin streamers atop a white Bible.

Miss Patty Seymour, maid of honor was attired in a floor length gown of brocade satin with long pointed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations topped a white Bible. Miss Pamela Langfitt, sister of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Jenkins, wore blue and yellow gowns fashioned like the maid of honor's they carried flowers to match their gowns on white Bibles. Their headpieces were flat bows with brief veils. Diane Lynn Hupp was flower girl.

Dan Tipton performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Jack Knisley, Robert Huffines, Jay Vannoy and Tom Langfitt, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Langfitt chose for her daughter's wedding a two piece suit of bonded lace with a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Neumeister wore a green print dress and white carnation corsage.

A reception at the Circleville Bible College Student Lounge, followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Miss Jackie Lawhun, Miss Vanda Bush, Miss Geraldine Moore and Mrs. Glenna Brown.

For a wedding trip to World's End Park and High Knob Mountain in Pennsylvania, the bride wore an aqua colored dress with three-quarter length sleeves and white accessories.

The new Mrs. Neumeister is a graduate of Jonathan Alder High School in Plain City and is a junior at the Circleville Bible College. She is employed at Berger Hospital.

Mr. Neumeister graduated from high school in Hedges, Pa., and is a junior at the Circleville Bible College, where he is employed.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. William Langfitt, Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Klinger and son, Hedges, Pa.; Mrs. M. Mowery, Amanda; Miss Nancy Stonerock, Williamsport; Mrs. D. Vannoy and children, Amanda.

Greenville Is Hit By Garbage Strike

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Labor problems were blamed for suspension of garbage and trash collection service here.

Officials of the B.J. Trucking Co., which has a garbage pick-up contract with the city, announced suspension of service Wednesday. The company said its 12 employees, although not unionized, had issued a series of requests covering working conditions.

Pro-Peking Group Blamed In Uruguayan Kidnaping

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Uruguayan government says it won't compromise with pro-Peking terrorists who kidnaped a key official in an attempt to force a softening of President Jorge Pacheco Areco's austerity program.

The largest manhunt in the country's history was under way for Dr. Ulises Pereira Reverbel, head of the state electric and telephone company, and a male secretary. They were kidnaped Wednesday by four members of the Tupamaro National Liberation Front. Armed with machine guns, the kidnapers wounded Pereira's chauffeur and another secretary.

Reverbel, 48, a wealthy cattle rancher, lawyer and close adviser to the president, had been a strong advocate of Pacheco's crackdown on labor agitation and his program of belt tightening to check inflation.

A leaflet distributed by the front said Reverbel was kidnaped "as a warning that nothing will remain unpunished and that popular justice will be exercised through the most convenient channels."

The leaflet accused Pacheco of "having sold our country to North American capital through the International Monetary Fund and through the meddling of neighboring dictatorship."

A government spokesman, who described the front as a Peking Communist group, said: "The government will not deal with delinquents—they are extremist elements who are out to intimidate but will not succeed."

Authorities said Reverbel's chauffeur identified two of the terrorists, saying they were Jorge Amilcar Lluveras, 38, a minor union leader, and Eloises Rivero Cedres, 30, a former Socialist militant. Both are known in left-wing circles as Peking Communists.

Gasco Launches Budget Plan Campaign

Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., today launched a month-long campaign to enroll customers in its popular budget payment program.

C. R. Baker, Circleville manager for the gas company said that during the coming month all of the company's customers would be given the opportunity to participate in the plan and spread their winter heating costs over the entire year... a no extra charge.

Baker pointed out that last year alone more than 60,000 economy-minded natural gas customers joined the plan. The gas company has had a budget payment plan for 12 years, Baker added.

"A customer not taking advantage of the gas company's budget payment plan pays about 65 per cent of his home's annual bill for gas service during the four coldest winter months," Baker said.

"A customer using the plan normally pays the same amount each month... approximately one-twelfth of his total annual cost for gas service," he added. "Each account is reviewed twice annually taking into consideration abnormal weather conditions or other factors that might affect the monthly payment. Adjustments are made if necessary."

Beginning August 9 and continuing for one month thereafter, each gas bill mailed to a residential or commercial customer will show that customer the amount he would pay each month under the budget payment plan. Customers may join or continue to participate in the plan simply by paying the "budget amount" indicated on the bill by a red arrow," Baker said.

He stressed that use of the plan is optional and those who do not wish to participate can pay their regular bill for gas used the preceding month which also is shown on the bill.

Rockefeller Campaign: Too Much Too Late

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's failure to win the Republican presidential nomination almost surely will be recorded as a classic example of the time-worn adage, "He who hesitates is lost."

If it is possible to blame any one element for Rockefeller's undoing, it is that he entered the race much too late.

"It all goes back to March 21," said former Rep. William E. Miller, the 1964 GOP vice-presidential nominee, who labored in Rockefeller's cause this time.

On that chilly spring day in Manhattan, Rockefeller jolted political professionals and dismayed ardent admirers by announcing that he would not seek the nomination.

Not quite six weeks later, Rockefeller went before another news conference, this time in Albany, N.Y., and declared that he had changed his mind—he now would pursue the nomination with "all my heart."

But damage had been done to his prospects. He not only lost valuable campaign time but also the allegiance of supporters.

If Rockefeller came in too late, it certainly was not with too little.

The multimillionaire mounted a campaign fueled by lavish expenditures of money and energy.

HHH Gets Telephones Despite Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey have had extra telephones installed at his Chicago offices despite a strike by electrical workers against the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., The New York Times said today.

The story from Chicago, where the Democratic National Convention will be held later this month, also said in part:

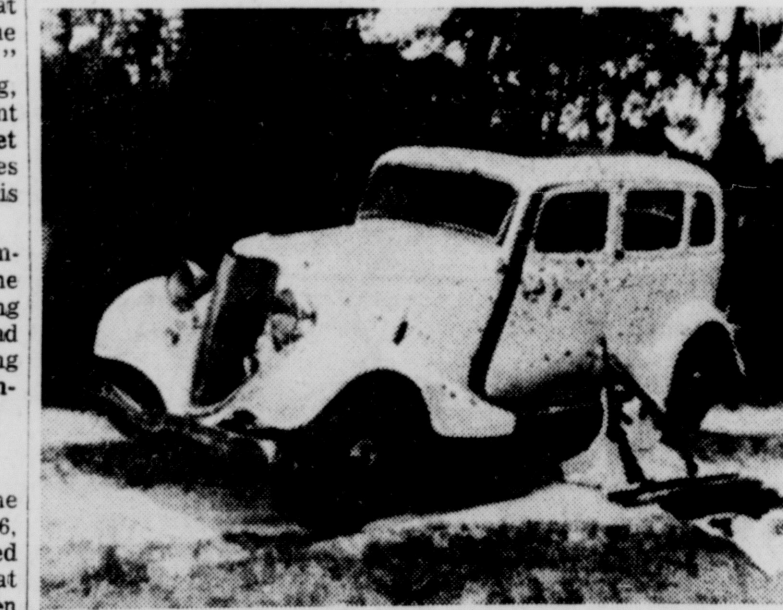

Spokesmen for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, Humphrey's rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, complained that lack of telephones was jeopardizing their operation. But they said they had not sought and would not seek to circumvent the striking International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in acquiring extra phones.

A Humphrey spokesman at first denied that extra telephones had been installed, then said that Illinois Bell management personnel had put six in one office.

Merrick said the fact that he's a Democrat has not colored his view. He's at the convention, he said, because "I think conventions are show business, and I'm a fan of them." He's also moonlighting as a columnist.

Merrick was reminded that four years ago he permitted the title song from "Hello, Dolly!" to be used as a campaign song. "Hello, Lyndon" for President Johnson. Asked if he would let any of the present candidates borrow a song from one of his shows, he said:

"I've already given Humphrey 'Let a Winner Lead the Way. I have a new show coming up on Broadway this fall, and I'm going to give the title song to Nixon — 'Promises, Promises.'"

GETAWAY CAR — The original Bonnie and Clyde getaway car will be on display Sunday at the Kroger Shopping Center on the Lancaster Pike.

He poured millions of dollars—the latest estimate is $5 million, but rivals believe the figure is much higher—into a dazzling advertising campaign, a heavily staffed campaign headquarters and a jet-powered air caravan that crisscrossed the nation many times.

Rockefeller pitched for support through an outpouring of professionally produced television spot commercials and a series of full-page ads in major newspapers throughout the country.

He wanted to show his strength in public opinion polls leaders that he was the candidate they needed for a sweeping GOP victory in November. After a faltering start, the polls gradually began to turn his way.

But the serious problem of being the latest entry evidenced itself in Rockefeller's inability to recapture the loyalty of some of his original backers.

Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, who had led the effort to draw Rockefeller into the race was a key example. Agnew was said to have soured on Rockefeller after the March 21 statement.

Agnew spurned Rockefeller's plea to keep the Maryland delegation neutral and instead nominated Nixon.

Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe, another who had spoken out for Rockefeller in the early going, seconded Nixon's nomination.

Rockefeller also had trouble convincing rank-and-file delegates that they should ignore their inclinations toward Nixon in favor of a more-likely winner—himself.

The defeated candidate told a news conference early today, "I think this convention genuinely preferred Dick Nixon and the same was true for the leader."

Rockefeller Campaign: Too Much Too Late

By CHARLES DUMAS Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's failure to win the Republican presidential nomination almost surely will be recorded as a classic example of the time-worn adage, "He who hesitates is lost."

If it is possible to blame any one element for Rockefeller's undoing, it is that he entered the race much too late.

On that chilly spring day in Manhattan, Rockefeller jolted political professionals and dismayed ardent admirers by announcing that he would not seek the nomination.

He had been expected to fill the void left by the withdrawal of Michigan Gov. George Romney, whom Rockefeller had encouraged to carry the so-called moderate Republican banner against Nixon.

Rockefeller had been beseeched by a wide variety of influential Republicans across the nation, including several governors, to declare his candidacy. They had taken his many previous disclaimers of interest as stalling tactics and had assumed he would now agree that the time had come to make his move.

Not quite six weeks later, Rockefeller went before another news conference, this time in Albany, N.Y., and declared that he had changed his mind—he now would pursue the nomination with "all my heart."

But damage had been done to his prospects. He not only lost valuable campaign time but also the allegiance of supporters.

Violence Genes' More Common Than Thought

BARHARBOR, Maine (AP) — New studies indicate that a genetic defect linked to crime and violence may be upwards of six times more common than previously thought.

Instead of affecting one man in 2,000, the abnormality may be present in one out of every 300, three prominent geneticists said Tuesday.

The defect involves the make-up of a man's chromosomes, 46 groupings of the genes which are the means for transmitting heredity. Normal women have sex chromosomes designated XX while normal men have sex chromosomes designated XY. Men with the defect discussed at the seminar have an extra Y element in their sex chromosomes, which are designated XYY.

The XYY condition gained worldwide attention recently when Daniel Hugon, a French stable hand accused of murdering a prostitute, was found to have XYY chromosomes. His lawyers contended he was not responsible for his actions because of his genetic makeup. There also has been speculation that Richard Speck, convicted of killing eight Chicago nurses, is XYY, but his case still is before the courts and the role of an XYY condition is not clear.

Men with the XYY condition characteristically are excessively tall, often six inches above normal. Many are dull mentally and often have acne. Their behavior varies from passivity to extreme aggressiveness. The three geneticists — Dr. Park S. Gerald of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Malcolm Ferguson-Smith of Glasgow University in Scotland, and Dr. William

'Violence Genes' More Common Than Thought

BARHARBOR, Maine (AP) — New studies indicate that a genetic defect linked to crime and violence may be upwards of six times more common than previously thought.

Instead of affecting one man in 2,000, the abnormality may be present in one out of every 300, three prominent geneticists said Tuesday.

The defect involves the make-up of a man's chromosomes, 46 groupings of the genes which are the means for transmitting heredity. Normal women have sex chromosomes designated XX while normal men have sex chromosomes designated XY.

Men with the defect discussed at the seminar have an extra Y element in their sex chromosomes, which are designated XYY.

The XYY condition gained worldwide attention recently when Daniel Hugon, a French stable hand accused of murdering a prostitute, was found to have XYY chromosomes. His lawyers contended he was not responsible for his actions because of his genetic makeup.

There also has been speculation that Richard Speck, convicted of killing eight Chicago nurses, is XYY, but his case still is before the courts and the role of an XYY condition is not clear.

Men with the XYY condition characteristically are excessively tall, often six inches above normal. Many are dull mentally and often have acne. Their behavior varies from passivity to extreme aggressiveness.

The three geneticists — Dr. Park S. Gerald of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Malcolm Ferguson-Smith of Glasgow University in Scotland, and Dr. William

Launch Program To Teach 'Parents'

CLEVELAND (AP)—An $80,000 program to teach foster parents, institutional child care workers and group home house-parents how to deal with problem children is being launched by the Cuyahoga County Welfare Department.

The program is being financed by the federal government, county funds and Case Western Reserve University.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Michael Kinney suffered his first defeat at the polls Tuesday since he first won election to the Missouri Senate in 1913.

The 94-year-old legislator lost in his bid for renomination on the Democratic ticket in the 5th senatorial district which includes downtown St. Louis.

He was defeated in the primary contest, 3,611 to 2,974, by Raymond Howard, 33, a Negro state representative serving his second term in the state house. The district is now predominantly Negro.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two men convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of a university of Cincinnati graduate student during racial disturbances here last April face individual maximum sentences of 20 years imprisonment.

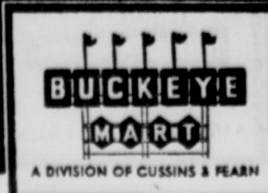

A Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury returned the verdict Tuesday against Terrice A. Lewis, 22, and Terry A. Ware 18. A third defendant, Eugene Calloway, 20, was acquitted but still faces a separate robbery charge.

Sentencing was set for next Monday.

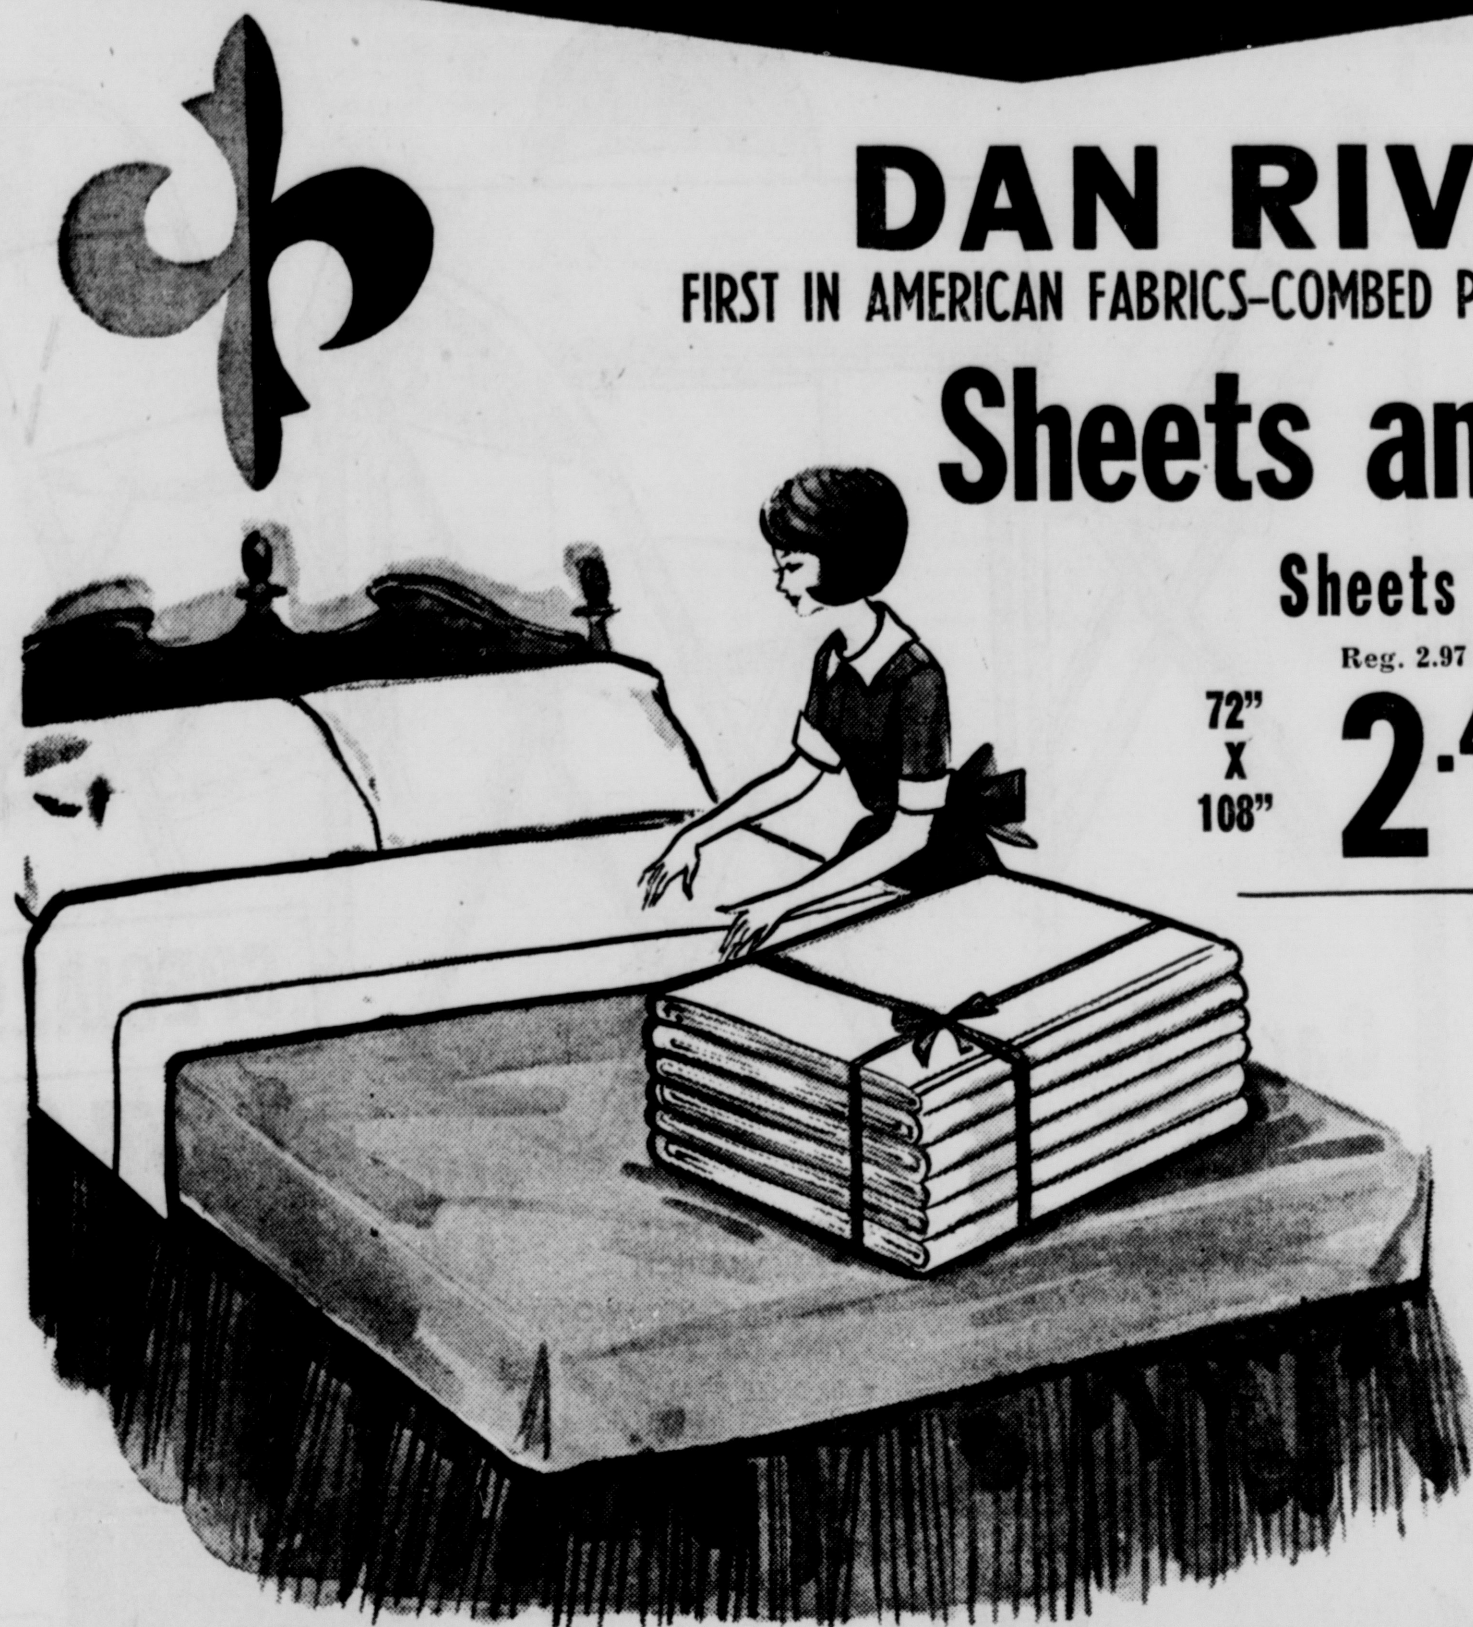

The three defendants, Cincinnatians, originally were charged with second-degree murder in the stabbing death on April 8 of Noel Wright, 30. Wright was slain after he stopped his car to investigate damage from rocks being thrown at it.

Potsdam Ending Sleep

POTSDAM, East Germany (AP) — This once elegant suburban town of the Prussian kings and of the 1945 Big Three conference is coming back to life after a long sleep. Twenty-three years ago, Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin, U.S. President Harry S. Truman and British Prime Minister Clement Attlee signed the Potsdam Agreement. It fixed defeated Germany's provisional boundaries, provided for war crimes trials and reparations, ousted the Nazis from office, ordered the decentralization of the German economy and removal of Germans from Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. In the decade of East-West cold war that followed, the town on the edge of Berlin was all but forgotten. One side or the other also found it necessary at times to forget this or that part of the agreement.

Now Potsdam's 1,200-acre former imperial grounds are freshly landscaped and open to the public. They attract crowds of Russian and other East European tourists plus, three daily sightseeing buses that make their way through the barbed wire and tedious East German controls from nearby West Berlin.

Sealing of the border with West Berlin meant closing the Boulevard used by kings and kaisers, the Potsdamer Chaussee, and turned Potsdam from a sleek suburb into a drowsy East German district capital of 100,000 population.

Roundabout road and train connections between Potsdam and East Berlin take up to an hour. West German tourists are not allowed on the sightseeing buses from West Berlin, perhaps because they might contradict the view of German history presented by the East German guides who climb aboard.

The visitors are shown the wood-paneled room where Stalin negotiated with Truman. Winston Churchill and, following a Labor party election victory, Attlee. Once they have seen the massed Russian, British and American flags and the picture of Russian and American soldiers meeting at the Elbe the commentary gets more political and more pointed.

Allied Troops Again Invade A Shau Valley; Few Reds

SAIGON (AP) — American and South Vietnamese troops have invaded the A Shau Valley for the second time in three days and a major Communist supply base again as part of their campaign to blunt the big enemy offensive expected in the next month or so.

A fleet of 200 helicopters landed more than 3,000 soldiers of the U.S. 101st Air Cavalry Division and the Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division in the valley in the northern part of South Vietnam Sunday and Monday, but announcement of the operation was withheld until today for security reasons.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the allied force has met with "minimal resistance" so far. Probably warned by the heavy air activity that preceded the invasion, the North Vietnamese presumably pulled back across the nearby Laotian border.

U.S. headquarters reported that 15 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in the first four days of the operation. U.S. losses were two dead and 22 wounded, while eight South Vietnamese were killed and 18 wounded.

Three helicopter gunships were shot down during the first minutes of the massive assault by 200 troop-carrying helicopters and their escorts. One crashed and burned, killing a crewman and injuring three others. But the anti-aircraft fire was scanty compared to the heavy barrages that destroyed or damaged 129 U.S. helicopters during the first invasion of the valley in April.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government troops uncovered an enemy base camp containing 50 barracks. Searching the structures, the South Vietnamese found an assortment of ammunition including 10 rockets and 15 cases of .50-caliber machine gun ammunition. More than 4,000 pounds of rice also had been left behind.

Just outside the eastern edge of the valley, units of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division uncovered an enemy bunker complex and another weapons cache that included five mortar tubes and assorted equipment, five anti-aircraft machine guns, one recoilless rifle and 30 pounds of explosives.

McCarthy Woos Ohio Demo Leaders

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said Wednesday the burden of the Vietnam war has fallen "most heavily on the backs of the working people and the poor people of America."

"These are the people who have sent their sons in overwhelming number to the battlefield," he told the International Typographical Union convention.

The Democratic presidential hopeful spent about 10 hours in Ohio Wednesday making speeches and seeking to win state delegates to the party's national convention in Chicago Aug. 26.

The Minnesota senator urged delegates to remain uncommitted and called the state "critical" to his convention hopes.

Delegates will caucus Monday in Columbus on whether to remain committed to the favorite son candidacy of U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young. They have 115 votes at the convention.

Starting his swing through the state in Columbus, McCarthy addressed several thousand supporters at a Statehouse rally. He urged them to do everything they could to indicate to delegates what the judgement of Ohio people was.

The tiny holes in saltine crackers are necessary to assure uniform baking of the entire cracker and to prevent "blistering" during the baking process. Without the holes, the center of the cracker would be unbaked while the edges and "blisters" were burned. The holes are made by little pins after the dough sheet is formed.

GERALD A. KRAUS

Kraus Named Senior Engineer At DuPont

Gerald A. Kraus, 350 Walnut Creek Pike, was recently appointed senior systems engineer in the Circleville DuPont Plant's accounting section.

Married, he and his wife, Jean Marie, are the parents of two children, Andrew Edward, 2; Cynthia Marie, 4.

Kraus started with Circleville DuPont in June, 1962, as an assistant in the methods section. He was later transferred as assistant engineer in the accounting section.

He is a graduate of the University of Wichita, Kansas, and received a BS degree in industrial engineering.

Kraus and his family are members of the St. Joseph Church. He is an officer in the local Knights of Columbus lodge.

Cincinnati Faces Tax Proposal

CINCINNATI (AP) — City Council placed a 2 per cent city income tax proposal, a 1 per cent increase over the present tax rate, on the coming November ballot Wednesday and also submitted a proposal for amendment of the city charter.

The amendment calls for reduction of real estate tax by $4 on each $1,000 valuation—provided the income tax increase got voter approval.

Troops in Vietnam Split on Nixon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops interviewed in Vietnam appear to be evenly divided—for and against—the presidential aspirations of Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon.

"I would rather have seen Rockefeller get it. I think he would be a better candidate," said Pfc. Robert Good of Dayton, Ohio.

"But," he added, "Most of the guys are for Nixon."

"He's a good man, he's got the experience," said Spec. 5 James Simon, 20, of Lansing, Mich.

"I intend to vote for Nixon," said Maj. Paul Roberts of Las Vegas, Nev. "He would be a good man to follow Johnson and to end the war. I don't think there's any doubt that the next president will end the war."

Roberts added: "Nixon's knowledge of foreign affairs is more complete than any of the other candidates. He's not an inspirational leader, but his integrity is not in question."

Nixon is not without his detractors among the military. "I'm a little disappointed with the Republicans," said John Front of Britton, S.D. "Two years ago there were six or seven Republican possibilities and all of a sudden we're back to the same old thing—Nixon. I'm just not enthused about it, I'd rather see Rockefeller."

"I think he's a pretty good Republican candidate," said Navy Yeoman 3C. Steven Wedeck of Burlington, Iowa, "but I don't think he'll win the election."

"I would rather have seen someone else," said Air Force M. Sgt. Richard C. Jones of Orlando, Fla. "Nixon never was very strong, but maybe he has gained strength in the past few years."

Lt. Joseph A. Trevino of Pittsburgh, Pa. thinks Nixon is the best candidate the Republicans could have chosen, "and I think he's probably going to get the presidency. He's a man with experience."

"He's the best of the Republicans," said Spec. 5 Phillip Shleman of Dallas, Tex. "I think it will be him in the election."

"I don't think Nixon will win. Rockefeller might have had a chance," said Lt. John Van Mol of Knoxville, Tenn. "The American people are not being given a real choice this election."

Capt. Robert Engstrom of Worcester, Mass., said he would have preferred Rockefeller. "I cannot say I am delighted with the choice of Nixon. I would prefer to see a more liberal candidate."

"Some more progressive views are needed on America's problems—including Vietnam—than anything Nixon is likely to come up with," he said.

"Nixon is probably the best chance the GOP has," said Lt. Thomas A. Leeton of Knoxville, Tenn. "Some of the other candidates were probably just as good, but Nixon has more of a name because of his record as vice president under Eisenhower."

Leeton added, however: "I am undecided whether to vote for him. That depends on his running mate and whom the Democrats nominate."

Gilligan Resigns Cincy Council Post

CINCINNATI (AP) — City Councilman John J. Gilligan submitted his resignation Wednesday to devote full time to his campaign for a U.S. Senate seat. He challenged Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, his Republican opponent, to resign from his state job.

There were reports that Thomas Luken, a former councilman, would get the seat vacated by Gilligan.

Allied Troops Again Invade A Shau Valley; Few Reds

SAIGON (AP) — American and South Vietnamese troops have invaded the A Shau Valley for the second time in three days and a major Communist supply base again as part of their campaign to blunt the big enemy offensive expected in the next month or so.

A fleet of 200 helicopters landed more than 3,000 soldiers of the U.S. 101st Air Cavalry Division and the Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division in the valley in the northern part of South Vietnam Sunday and Monday, but announcement of the operation was withheld until today for security reasons.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the allied force has met with "minimal resistance" so far. Probably warned by the heavy air activity that preceded the invasion, the North Vietnamese presumably pulled back across the nearby Laotian border.

U.S. headquarters reported that 15 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in the first four days of the operation. U.S. losses were two dead and 22 wounded, while eight South Vietnamese were killed and 18 wounded.

Three helicopter gunships were shot down during the first minutes of the massive assault by 200 troop-carrying helicopters and their escorts. One crashed and burned, killing a crewman and injuring three others. But the anti-aircraft fire was scanty compared to the heavy barrages that destroyed or damaged 129 U.S. helicopters during the first invasion of the valley in April.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government troops uncovered an enemy base camp containing 50 barracks. Searching the structures, the South Vietnamese found an assortment of ammunition including 10 rockets and 15 cases of .50-caliber machine gun ammunition. More than 4,000 pounds of rice also had been left behind.

Just outside the eastern edge of the valley, units of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division uncovered an enemy bunker complex and another weapons cache that included five mortar tubes and assorted equipment, five anti-aircraft machine guns, one recoilless rifle and 30 pounds of explosives.

McCarthy Woos Ohio Demo Leaders

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said Wednesday the burden of the Vietnam war has fallen "most heavily on the backs of the working people and the poor people of America."

"These are the people who have sent their sons in overwhelming number to the battlefield," he told the International Typographical Union convention.

The Democratic presidential hopeful spent about 10 hours in Ohio Wednesday making speeches and seeking to win state delegates to the party's national convention in Chicago Aug. 26.

The Minnesota senator urged delegates to remain uncommitted and called the state "critical" to his convention hopes.

Delegates will caucus Monday in Columbus on whether to remain committed to the favorite son candidacy of U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young. They have 115 votes at the convention.

Starting his swing through the state in Columbus, McCarthy addressed several thousand supporters at a Statehouse rally. He urged them to do everything they could to indicate to delegates what the judgement of Ohio people was.

The tiny holes in saltine crackers are necessary to assure uniform baking of the entire cracker and to prevent "blistering" during the baking process. Without the holes, the center of the cracker would be unbaked while the edges and "blisters" were burned. The holes are made by little pins after the dough sheet is formed.

Troops in Vietnam Split on Nixon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops interviewed in Vietnam appear to be evenly divided—for and against—the presidential aspirations of Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon.

Garden Gossip and Helpful Hints

By MRS. E. P. HANSON
"The Lady by the Lake"

August is the time of the Maize Moon, the time the corn ripens, of golden rod (Oh, those sneezes!) and of very little rain.

Gypsophila and strawflowers should be picked on a hot dry day for drying and should be hung up with heads down in a carton lined with paper. That is the best way to assure good quality for future use.

Cabbage heads that are cracking bend over the stalks and break the roots on one side. This will curb the growth.

Time to order Peonies, Madonna lily bulbs, Nankeen lily, crocuses, daffodils and to transplant all evergreens and iris. This is the only time to transplant Oriental poppies.

Ross Spalding, Route 3, came home from vacation and spent a very warm day getting the yard back into its respectable shape. The hedge trimming was the big job.

On the corner of Edwards Road is a first year garden. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pryors live in a neat white ranch home with a wire fenced in back yard. Flower beds in the back were all colors with yellow canna predominating. White petunias among the pink ones are very pretty. The front of the home has roses tastefully planted. Beneath the roses and at the edge were variegated plants.

A clump of white birch with pink and white petunias form a circle in the front yard.

The McNeals on Nicholas Drive have used their white cemented home for a back drop for their bright red petunia planting in a flower box. No other color would catch the eye as the red.

Out on Bolender Road off Route 22 is a tiny creek on the property of the Robert

GARDENER EXTRAORDINARY — Guy E. Stockman of 376 Northridge Road is shown with one of his prize winning dahlias. He has staked and named over 100 plants of gladioli, roses, tomatoes and a very large assortment of dahlias. Story of his many gardening successes, his retirement hobby, are told in the garden column today.

Greens. This spring, Green put a new bridge across it and painted it a soft grey. By keeping it mowed all summer and adding an outdoor storage and patio in the glen they have a lovely place to sit in hot weather. The trees are tall and stately, furnishing homes for all kinds of birds. The sunshine dapples the ground and adds needed sun for the green smooth lawn.

Haven't the flowers, the fruits and vegetables been exceedingly good this year! Do hope most of you gardeners took time this past week and stopped at your county fair. The examples of the products of so many, many gardens were outstanding.

This editor and many more people went home with firm reservations to do more in our own gardens. Get those seed books out and start making out orders for next year's garden. So many things can be planted now and while our minds are on the subject it is a good time to get started.

On Saturday I visited a garden I have been watching on Northridge Road one that so many others have seen also. Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, Mrs. George McCoy, and Mrs. W. L. Smith all told me to be sure and stop out and see Guy Stockman's yard. It can be seen from the road and if you have missed it look to your right at Georgia Road and 276 Northridge Road. Stockman has all his plants in the back yard staked and named. The garden is Stockman's hobby and it takes up most of his time.

The front has the usual type of evergreens kept trimmed low. The red, pink and white petunias, mums, and ivy are planted in front of the house. Up the side of the wide driveway are purple, pink and white alyssum.

Painted daisies, asters and iris edge the walk way to the back yard. The gladioli were big and ruffly. Every color, size and description of dahlia forms the heart of the man's garden.

The bronze blooms were outstanding. The lavenders, pinks, reds, oranges, purples, yellows, and deep red ones all share the spot light. The comos and the zinnia out lined that bed. Then in the back of the yard are tomatoes and in front of them a very long strawberry bed. Asters were planted in back of the garage. Not a weed in sight and Stockman has only a few roses. This will be a garden to watch as the years go by.

The Otto Guenther's next door to the Stockmans have a large patch of tomatoes, all staked and looked loaded with both fruit and blossoms.

If you have a favorite garden or you know of one that would be of interest to all of us why not drop me a card or call me at 474-2693 and then we can share it with all.

At the fair there were a great many ideas carried out in the containers and wood saved and polished, worked in to the arrangements.

The flowers used in the artistic arrangements were of the best quality.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Childish Man Tells Friends Everything

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man in many ways, but he has one terrible fault which I think is inexcusable. He "tells all" (and I do mean ALL) to his men friends.

I feel that we have no intimate husband-wife secrets like other married couples. My husband tells guys he hasn't even known very long everything that goes on between us. I know he has because he's told me so.

Knowing that all his men friends know all those intimate things about me, I can't face them.

What is the matter with a man who acts like this? I have grown cold toward him, and we've only been married 2 years. Do you blame me?

COLD WIFE
DEAR COLD: Either your husband is very immature or he thinks he's invented something. Your talkative husband is "telling all" to the wrong people. If he can't keep his mouth shut, and tell it to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I am a recent divorcee, and as such, most men take me for an "easy mark." They all ask the same question, "What do you have to lose?"

I am in my late thirties, and I'm certainly not a child. But what is a good answer for these eager beavers? The word "NO" doesn't seem to mean anything to them. They want to know WHY! Please give me a good answer.

INDIANA READER

DEAR READER: Just say, "NO — that's not my style," and don't engage in a debate with any of these clowns or you're sunk.

DEAR ABBY: Ben and I have been happily married for 4 years (no children yet) and I wouldn't think of being unfaithful. He says he trusts me, and he isn't the least bit jealous.

Well, the employees at my office recently got up a bowling team, and since I am a pretty good bowler, I joined. The other married bowlers always come alone and go home alone, and their spouses never come to "watch" them.

Ben and I each drive our own cars, but on my bowling night, Ben drives me to work. I go to the bowling alley with a co-worker, then Ben calls for me at the alley. He always comes so early that it's tight at the beginning of the game, so he "waits" for me. While he waits, he watches every move I make. This affects my game and I go to pieces and can't bowl. Once Ben had car trouble and didn't get there until after the game, and that was the only time I bowled my usual game, and our team won.

I can't tell Ben not to come so early or he'll think I'm hiding something. Yet when he watches me bowl I am so bad the team suffers. Please, please help me.

BOWLING BLUES

DEAR BLUES: Don't pussyfoot around. Tell Ben that "I cannot bowl your best when he is watching you, so to please do you, and the team, a favor and come AFTER the game."

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.S.: In selecting a career for yourself, choose a tough one. That way you won't have so much competition.

EAR-BENDING—Michigan's Gov. George Romney bends the ear of Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield in Miami Beach.

Something To Think About . . . Dog Days of Summer

By JEAN CRIST

Most of my life has been spent living in Circleville and living through the so-called "dog days" that occur at the end of summer. I never knew just where the expression came from but I did know it was the most miserable of all Ohio weather and that's saying a lot for we do have a range of unpleasant weather in Ohio.

I looked up "dog days" and found it to be the sultry part of summer supposed to occur about the time of the heliac rising of one of the Dog Stars now often reckoned from July 3 to August 11. Among the Romans it was considered the hottest part of the summer when the Dog Star or Sirius rose and it was this connection that survives in the modern expression "dog days." I always thought they called it "dog days" because it was too hot and humid even for dogs.

Among other occurrences at this particular period of summer is the lack of patience that mothers have when dealing with hot, bored children who have run the gauntlet of summer and are ready for school's organized day whether they are aware of it or not. Mothers come in for a lot of criticism when it comes to the attitude they have about their children in the summertime. They are thought to be harsh and unloving when they state they don't know how they can make it through the summer with all the children at home.

But those that criticize are usually fathers, grandparents or teachers who only have the children around part of the time and are not required to spend twenty four hours a day for about three months with the active little ones and the argumentative older ones. Even for the most loving of mothers the month of August can be survived only because they know September is coming and some sort of sanity will prevail over the house for at least part of the day. So forgive mother her somewhat unloving attitude and understand even a saint would have a little trouble being one in her shoes.

The children have been playing since school closed it's doors. They have visited overnight, slept out in the backyard, had picnics at the lake and spent a week at grandma and grandpa's. Now the August lull has come and even these inventive minds can't think of anything interesting to do to occupy their time. They wouldn't admit it to any adults but in their heart they are beginning to be a little excited about the nearing prospect of school. They are curious to see some of their friends that they haven't seen since last year and wondering what the new teachers will be like. The older youth are anticipating the beginning of their college days which is at the same time a rather unsettling and wonderful experience.

And Dad, well he's thinking that it won't be long until the grass will stop its incessant growing and enable him to relax in his easy chair instead of mowing the lawn. Mother will again start cooking the steaks inside and he won't have to do the grilling. Yep, once the storm windows are in he can take it pretty easy again. He is rushing things somewhat, but the poor man has to have something to look forward to.

So the days go by, rather swiftly at that. We look back over the pleasures of summer that have given us happy memories and look with anticipation at the joys and color of fall that will soon be upon us. And we are reminded again of the way nature slips each season upon us without our consciously realizing it and how natural it all seems. If we could but fashion our human world in such a manner as nature provides it might be a more beautiful and peaceful place in which to live.

Columbus Brass Wait Uncalled In Jury Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police Chief Robert Baus and Safety Director Fred Simon Tuesday attended a session of the federal grand jury probing alleged gambling activities in Columbus but apparently did not get to testify.

The two officials had not been summoned for testimony but had asked to be heard.

Before the grand jury session, Simon said "it was only fair that I be allowed to testify if they want to know the truth."

But when the session ended Baus and Simon indicated they did "nothing but wait."

Both declined to comment to newsmen further. The grand jury will continue the investigation Aug. 14.

Although the proceedings of a grand jury are secret, it was reported earlier that Internal Revenue Service and Justice Department agents were to testify about Columbus police activities which they say may have hampered their investigations.

Garden Gossip and Helpful Hints

By MRS. E. P. HANSON
"The Lady by the Lake"

August is the time of the Maize Moon, the time the corn ripens, of golden rod (Oh, those sneezes!) and of very little rain.

Gypsophila and strawflowers should be picked on a hot dry day for drying and should be hung up with heads down in a carton lined with paper. That is the best way to assure good quality for future use.

Cabbage heads that are cracking bend over the stalks and break the roots on one side. This will curb the growth.

Time to order Peonies, Madonna lily bulbs, Nankeen lily, crocuses, daffodils and to transplant all evergreens and iris. This is the only time to transplant Oriental poppies.

Ross Spalding, Route 3, came home from vacation and spent a very warm day getting the yard back into its respectable shape. The hedge trimming was the big job.

On the corner of Edwards Road is a first year garden. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pryors live in a neat white ranch home with a wire fenced in back yard. Flower beds in the back were all colors with yellow cannas predominating. White petunias among the pink ones are very pretty. The front of the home has roses tastefully planted. Beneath the roses and at the edge were variegated plants.

A clump of white birch with pink and white petunias form a circle in the front yard.

The McNells on Nicholas Drive have used their white cemented home for a back drop for their bright red petunia planting in a flower box. No other color would catch the eye as the red.

Out on Bolender Road off Route 22 is a tiny creek on the property of the Robert

Greens. This spring, Green put a new bridge across it and painted it a soft grey. By keeping it mowed all summer and adding an outdoor storage and patio in the glen they have a lovely place to sit in hot weather. The trees are tall and stately, furnishing homes for all kinds of birds. The sunshine dapples the ground and adds needed sun for the green smooth lawn.

Haven't the flowers, the fruits and vegetables been exceedingly good this year! Do hope most of you gardeners took time this past week and stopped at your county fair. The examples of the products of so many, many gardens were outstanding.

This editor and many more people went home with firm reservations to do more in our own gardens. Get those seed books out and start making out orders for next year's garden. So many things can be planted now and while our minds are on the subject it is a good time to get started.

On Saturday I visited a garden I have been watching on Northridge Road one that so many others have seen also. Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, Mrs. George McCov, and Mrs. W. L. Smith all told me to be sure and stop out and see Guy Stockman's yard. It can be seen from the road and if you have missed it look to your right at Georgia Road and 276 Northridge Road. Stockman has all his plants in the back yard staked and named. The garden is Stockman's hobby and it takes up most of his time.

The front has the usual type of evergreens kept trimmed low. The red, pink and white petunias, mums, and ivy are planted in front of the house. Up the side of the wide driveway are purple, pink and white alysium.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Childish Man Tells Friends Everything

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man in many ways, but he has one terrible fault which I think is inexcusable. He "tells all" (and I do mean ALL) to his men friends.

I feel that we have no intimate husband-wife secrets like other married couples. My husband tells guys he hasn't even known very long everything that goes on between us. I know he has because he's told me so.

Knowing that all his men friends know all those intimate things about me, I can't face them.

What is the matter with a man who acts like this? I have grown cold toward him, and we've only been married 2 years. Do you blame me?

COLD WIFE
DEAR COLD: Either your husband is very immature or he thinks he's invented something. Your talkative husband is "telling all" to the wrong people. If he can't keep his mouth shut, he should lie down on a couch, and tell it to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I am a recent divorcee, and as such, most men take me for an "easy mark." They all ask the same question, "What do you have to lose?"

I am in my late thirties, and I'm certainly not a child. But what is a good answer for these eager beavers? The word "NO" doesn't seem to mean anything to them. They want to know WHY! Please give me a good answer.

INDIANA READER
DEAR READER: Just say, "NO — that's not my style," and don't engage in a debate with any of these clowns or you're sunk.

DEAR ABBY: Ben and I have been happily married for 4 years (no children yet) and I wouldn't think of being unfaithful. He says he trusts me, and he isn't the least bit jealous.

Well, the employees at my office recently got up a bowling team, and since I am a pretty good bowler, I joined. The other married bowlers always come alone and go home alone, and their spouses never come to "watch" them.

Ben and I each drive our own cars, but on my bowling night, Ben drives me to work. I go to the bowling alley with a co-worker, then Ben calls for me at the alley. He always comes so early that it's tight at the beginning of the game, so he "waits" for me. While he waits, he watches every move I make. This affects my game and I go to pieces and can't bowl. Once Ben had car trouble and didn't get there until after the game, and that was the only time I bowled my usual game, and our team won.

I can't tell Ben not to come so early or he'll think I'm hiding something. Yet when he watches me bowl I am so bad the team suffers. Please, please help me.

BOWLING BLUES
DEAR BLUES: Don't pussyfoot around. Tell Ben that you can't bowl your best when he is watching you, so to please do you, and the team, a favor and come AFTER the game.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.S.: In selecting a career for yourself, choose a tough one. That way you won't have so much competition.

Something To Think About . . . Dog Days of Summer

By JEAN CRIST

Most of my life has been spent living in Circleville and living through the so-called "dog days" that occur at the end of summer. I never knew just where the expression came from but I did know it was the most miserable of all Ohio weather and that's saying a lot for we do have a range of unpleasant weather in Ohio.

I looked up "dog days" and found it to be the sultry part of summer supposed to occur about the time of the heliacal rising of one of the Dog Stars now often reckoned from July 3 to August 11. Among the Romans it was considered the hottest part of the summer when the Dog Star or Sirius rose and it was this connection that survives in the modern expression "dog days." I always thought they called it "dog days" because it was too hot and humid even for dogs.

Among other occurrences at this particular period of summer is the lack of patience that mothers have when dealing with hot, bored children who have run the gauntlet of summer and are ready for school's organized day whether they are aware of it or not. Mothers come in for a lot of criticism when it comes to the attitude they have about their children in the summertime. They are thought to be harsh and unloving when they state they don't know how they can make it through the summer with all the children at home.

But those that criticize are usually fathers, grandparents or teachers who only have the children around part of the time and are not required to spend twenty four hours a day for about three months with the active little ones and the argumentative older ones. Even for the most loving of mothers the month of August can be survived only because they know September is coming and some sort of sanity will prevail over the house for at least part of the day. So forgive mother her somewhat unloving attitude and understand even a saint would have a little trouble being one in her shoes.

The children have been playing since school closed its doors. They have visited overnight, slept out in the backyard, had picnics at the lake and spent a week at grandma and grandpa's. Now the August lull has come and even these inventive minds can't think of anything interesting to do to occupy their time. They wouldn't admit it to any adults but in their heart they are beginning to be a little excited about the nearing prospect of school. They are curious to see some of their friends that they haven't seen since last year and wondering what the new teachers will be like. The older youth are anticipating the beginning of their college days which is at the same time a rather unsettling and wonderful experience.

And Dad, well he's thinking that it won't be long until the grass will stop its incessant growing and enable him to relax in his easy chair instead of mowing the lawn. Mother will again start cooking the steaks inside and he won't have to do the grilling. Yep, once the storm windows are in he can take it pretty easy again. He is rushing things somewhat, but the poor man has to have something to look forward to.

So the days go by, rather swiftly at that. We look back over the pleasures of summer that have given us happy memories and look with anticipation at the joys and color of fall that will soon be upon us. And we are reminded again of the way nature slips each season upon us without our consciously realizing it and how natural it all seems. If we could but fashion our human world in such a manner as nature provides it might be a more beautiful and peaceful place in which to live.

IT'S OVER AND OUT FOR ROGER—Major league baseball career of Roger Maris, now a Cardinal outfielder, will end at the close of this season, according to Roger himself. The ex-Yankee, who hit 61 home runs in 1961 for the Yankees, is completing his second year with the Cards after being a Yank for five seasons. He's seen with his son, Roger Jr., 9.

Circleville Swim Club Wins Dual Meet with Lancaster

The Circleville Swim Team virtually assured themselves second place in the Mount Pleasant Swim League last night when they won a squeaker, 210½ - 206½, from a real tough Tiki Swim Team at the Lancaster Club's pool.

Bad luck hit the local swimmers when two of their first five medley relay race wins were taken away from them due to disqualifications. The disqualifications spotted the host Tiki team 23 points which point by point the local swimmers made up as the meet progressed.

Circleville pulled into the lead at the three quarter mark, during the breaststroke events by winning first and second places in six out of the eight events breaststroke events. The lead was lost however, during the butterfly events, and the final freestyle relay races.

Going into the last event of the meet, the boys 17 and under freestyle relay, Circleville was behind by three points. The win by the Circleville freestyle relay team, consisting of Jeff Griffith, Alan Krieger, Craig Dresbach and Mark Ralston, gave the locals the meet victory.

INDIVIDUAL winners were: Steve Penn, three; Nancy Guenther, three; Mark Ralston two; Mike Wilson, Molly Shea, Craig Dresbach, John Lawter, Katy Wilson, Eric Fortell, Debbie Shea, Mike Sparks, one each.

Tonight, Circleville will swim their final dual league meet against the Estate Swim Club from Lancaster who have a 0-5 record to date. Circleville record going into the last meet is 4-1. Tonight's meet will take place at 5:30 in the Circleville Pool.

Next Sunday, all six teams in the Mount Pleasant League will meet for the League Championship meet, to be held in the Tiki pool in Lancaster.

2 Holes-in-One Made in Van Wert

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—Two women playing together made successive holes-in-one on the 125-yard No. 4 hole at Willow Bend Country Club.

It happened Monday to Mrs. Carl Angerer and Mrs. Robert Brickman, both of Van Wert, who were playing in a club tournament.

Mrs. Angerer used her driver for the tee shot. Mrs. Brickman used a No. 5 wood.

Buskirk Fires 38 in Lansdowne Men's League

Dick Buskirk carded a 38 at Upper Lansdowne Wednesday to win low gross honors in the Men's Golf League.

The low net score was by Terry Imler with a 33. Par-busters moved back into first place in the league standing with 19 points.

Members of the first place team are Jerry Kraus, Jack Hutchinson, Gale Leatherwood and Dick Robbins.

The first place team has 65 points. In second are the Sandbaggers with 63 points while the slicers are third with 56.

George Stone Leads Braves over Chicago

Cards Lead NL Pack By 14 Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Young George Stone, two days away from his 22nd birthday, just might have nailed down a permanent job at Atlanta, which is a lot closer to his home town of Ruston, La., than, say, Montreal or San Diego.

"He looked real good to me," Atlanta manager Luman Harris said after the rookie lefty pitched and batted the Braves to a 10-2 victory over Chicago Wednesday night.

"We've got to give him another look or two before deciding on whether to protect him in the draft or not."

Stone, making only his second start of the season, drove in three runs, limited Chicago to six hits, struck out five and walked only one.

"I'd say he passed with flying colors," Harris said.

The league leading St. Louis Cardinals whipped Cincinnati 3-1, Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 6-2 in a late night game, San Francisco nipped Philadelphia 4-3 in a day game and Houston fought off the New York Mets in a game marred by a brawl.

Stone had trouble only with Jim Hickman and Ernie Banks, who hit solo home runs for the Cubs.

And it was his single up the middle with the bases loaded that drove in two runs and broke Ken Holtzman's scoreless inning string at 28. He also singled in a run in the Braves' clinching, five-run seventh inning.

"He's a young man with a good future," Harris said. "We'll have to see some more him," as reference to the expansion draft to stock the two new teams in Montreal and San Diego.

Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey each drove in two runs and Don Sutton scattered eight hits in Los Angeles' victory over Pittsburgh. Sutton had a five-hitter going into the ninth, when he weakened and finished with an eight-hitter. Donn Clendenon had a homer for the Pirates.

The league leading Cardinals, delayed in starting one hour and thirty minutes due to rain, needed only 1:56 in whipping Cincinnati. It put them 14 games ahead of the pack and dropped Cincinnati from second to fourth.

Tim McCarver singled in a Cardinal run in the first and made it 3-0 in the fifth on doubles by Bobby Tolan and Orlando Cepeda and a single by Phil Gagliano. Pete Rose homered for the losers.

A's Yankees Split Doubleheader

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Keough and Dave Campbell obviously haven't been around long enough to adjust to 1968's Great Hit Famine.

Keough of Oakland and Campbell of Detroit had a total of six major league at bats between them before Wednesday—all of them belonging to the Tiger infielder.

Today they both have their home runs and Keough, fourth member of Oakland's Arizona State Alumni Association, also has a small spot in baseball's record book.

Keough, called up from the minor leagues earlier this week, became the 37th player to hit a homer in his first big league at bat the 10th one to do it as a pinch hitter—and helped Oakland defeat the New York Yankees 4-3 in the second game of a Wednesday doubleheader. New York took the opener 3-0.

Campbell, playing in his sixth game, and first as a starter for the Tigers, tagged his first major league hit—a homer naturally—as Detroit defeated Cleveland 6-1.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, Boston clipped Chicago 3-2, California dropped Washington 4-2 and Baltimore swept a doubleheader from Minnesota 3-0 and 9-6. Detroit also completed a 5-2 victory over Cleveland in a game suspended after eight innings Tuesday night.

Keough, like teammates Rick Monday, Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson, came to the A's off the Arizona State campus, and was batting .303 at Birmingham of the Southern League when Oakland sold Floyd Robinson to Boston last week and Keough came up.

He got his first major league swing in the eighth inning of the second game with Oakland trailing 3-2 and tagged a Lindy McDaniel pitch into Yankee Stadium's right field seats. That tied the score and two innings later, Jackson, not to be outdone by his old school chum, singled Oakland's winning run home.

In the rain-delayed opener, Mel Stottlemyre won his 15th on a six-hitter with Joe Pepitone's two-run homer providing all the offense he needed.

Campbell's first homer was somewhat less dramatic than Keough's. It came in the eighth inning with the Tigers already enjoying a 4-1 edge.

Detroit packed three runs in the first inning—two of them on Bill Freehan's double. Earl Wilson, with late-inning help from Daryl Patterson, won his 10th and Willie Horton clubbed his 27th home run.

Reliever John Wyatt retired the Indians in the ninth inning of the suspended game to nail down the 5-2 victory.

LL All Stars Drop 4-1 Tilt To Frankfort

Circleville Little League Major All-Stars lost a 4-1 tilt to Frankfort Wednesday in the Scioto Valley Little League Tournament in Chillicothe.

The All-Stars scored a single run in the first inning to grab the early lead. But Frankfort came on to score two in the third and two in the sixth.

Rock Davis was the losing hurler, working into the sixth inning and allowing eight hits and two walks. Davis struck out eight. Perry Hoskins pitched relief and struck out three.

Kris Kline and Brian Barthelmas doubled for the All-Stars. Frankfort hurler Boster handcuffed the locals on four hits, walking one and fanning 13.

The All Stars play the second game in the Ashville tournament against PPG tonight at 8:30. Players should meet at Ted Lewis Park at 7 p.m. The team returns to Chillicothe for Scioto Valley tourney play Tuesday. Game time is 6 p.m.

Lalu Sabotin Holds Golf Lead

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—Lalu Sabotin, the Warren fire captain and two-time former champ, holds the lead by one stroke today at the half-way mark of the 35th Ohio Publix Golf Tournament.

Sabotin added a two-under-par 70 Wednesday to his 67 opening round for a 139, one stroke up on Jim Musille of Mansfield, who came on strong the second day.

Ohio Little League Clash Postponed

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The championship game in the Ohio Little League Tournament was postponed by rain Wednesday with Fairborn leading South Akron 5-0 in the bottom of the second inning.

Play was to resume this afternoon at Allard Park in suburban Scioto ville.

Sherman Plunkett Dropped By Jets for Overweight

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

In a crash diet, the New York Jets dropped 330 pounds in a day—and all of them belonged to Sherman Plunkett.

The rotund offensive tackle had played in every game—70 of them—in the Jets' history in the American Football League but he ate himself out of 71.

"We just had to let him go," Coach Weeb Eubank said of the 34-year-old, 11-year pro football veteran who carries his 330 pounds over a 6-foot-2 frame. "He got too far out of shape."

"Sherman was one of the greatest offensive linemen I've ever coached," added Eubank, who coached Plunkett at Baltimore in the National League. "He rivals Jim Parker, Lou Rymkus and Winston Hill."

But Eubank still ordered Plunkett to report to training camp at 300 pounds. Plunkett, however, came in at 337 and managed to lose only seven pounds and his starting job to 6-6, 270-pound rookie Sam Walton of East Texas State.

Plunkett asked to be placed on waivers and is hopeful he can catch on with another team. Another big offensive tackle, Walt Rock of San Francisco of the NFL, is having geographical problems.

The 6-6, 265-pounder with five years in the league said he might retire at the age of 26 unless he is traded to Baltimore or Washington.

Rock said he has taken over his late father-in-law's prosperous garage door business on the East Coast, but is bound to the 49ers by the option clause of a two-year contract he signed in 1966.

The league leading St. Louis Cardinals whipped Cincinnati 3-1, Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 6-2 in a late night game.

San Francisco nipped Philadelphia 4-3 in a day game and Houston fought off the New York Mets in a game marred by a brawl.

Stone had trouble only with Jim Hickman and Ernie Banks, who hit solo home runs for the Cubs.

And it was his single up the middle with the bases loaded that drove in two runs and broke Ken Holtzman's scoreless inning string at 28. He also singled in a run in the Braves' clinching, five-run seventh inning.

"He's a young man with a good future," Harris said.

"We'll have to see some more him," as reference to the expansion draft to stock the two new teams in Montreal and San Diego.

Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey each drove in two runs and Don Sutton scattered eight hits in Los Angeles' victory over Pittsburgh. Sutton had a five-hitter going into the ninth, when he weakened and finished with an eight-hitter. Donn Clendenon had a homer for the Pirates.

The league leading Cardinals, delayed in starting one hour and thirty minutes due to rain, needed only 1:56 in whipping Cincinnati. It put them 14 games ahead of the pack and dropped Cincy from second to fourth.

Tim McCarver singled in a Cardinal run in the first and they made it 3-0 in the fifth on doubles by Bobby Tolan and Orlando Cepeda and a single by Phil Gagliano. Pete Rose homered for the losers.

A's Yankees Split Doubleheader

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Joe Keough and Dave Campbell obviously haven't been around long enough to adjust to 1968's Great Hit Famine.

Keough of Oakland and Campbell of Detroit had a total of six major league at bats between them before Wednesday—all of them belonging to the Tiger infielder.

Today they both have their home runs and Keough, fourth member of Oakland's Arizona State Alumni Association, also has a small spot in baseball's record book.

Keough, called up from the minor leagues earlier this week, became the 37th player to hit a homer in his first big league at bat the 10th one to do it as a pinch hitter—and helped Oakland defeat the New York Yankees 4-3 in the second game of a Wednesday doubleheader. New York took the opener 3-0.

Campbell, playing in his sixth game, and first as a starter for the Tigers, tagged his first major league hit—a homer naturally—as Detroit defeated Cleveland 6-1.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, Boston clipped Chicago 3-2, California dropped Washington 4-2 and Baltimore swept a doubleheader from Minnesota 3-0 and 9-6. Detroit also completed a 5-2 victory over Cleveland in a game suspended after eight innings Tuesday night.

Keough, like teammates Rick Monday, Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson, came to the A's off the Arizona State campus, and was batting .303 at Birmingham of the Southern League when Oakland sold Floyd Robinson to Boston last week and Keough came up.

He got his first major league swing in the eighth inning of the second game with Oakland trailing 3-2 and tagged a Lindy McDaniel pitch into Yankee Stadium's right field seats. That tied the score and two innings later, Jackson, not to be outdone by his old school chum, singled Oakland's winning run home.

In the rain-delayed opener, Mel Stottlemyre won his 15th on a six-hitter with Joe Pepitone's two-run homer providing all the offense he needed.

Campbell's first homer was somewhat less dramatic than Keough's. It came in the eighth inning with the Tigers already enjoying a 4-1 edge.

Detroit packed three runs in the first inning—two of them on Bill Freehan's double, Earl Wilson, with late-inning help from Daryl Patterson, won his 10th and Willie Horton clubbed his 27th home run.

Reliever John Wyatt retired the Indians in the ninth inning of the suspended game to nail down the 5-2 victory.

Sherman Plunkett Dropped By Jets for Overweight

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

In a crash diet, the New York Jets dropped 330 pounds in a day—and all of them belonged to Sherman Plunkett.

The rotund offensive tackle had played in every game—70 of them—in the Jets' history in the American Football League but he ate himself out of 71.

"We just had to let him go," Coach Weeb Eubank said of the 34-year-old, 11-year pro football veteran who carries his 330 pounds over a 6-foot-2 frame. "He got too far out of shape."

"Sherman was one of the greatest offensive linemen I've ever coached," added Eubank, who coached Plunkett at Baltimore in the National League. "He rivals Jim Parker, Lou Rymkus and Winston Hill."

But Eubank still ordered Plunkett to report to training camp at 300 pounds. Plunkett, however, came in at 337 and managed to lose only seven pounds and his starting job to 6-5, 270-pound rookie Sam Walton of East Texas State.

Plunkett asked to be placed on waivers and is hopeful he can catch on with another team.

Another big offensive tackle, Walt Rock of San Francisco of the NFL, is having geographical problems.

The 6-5, 265-pounder with five years in the league said he might retire at the age of 26 unless he is traded to Baltimore or Washington.

Rock said he has taken over his late father-in-law's prosperous garage door business on the East Coast, but is bound to the 49ers by the option clause of a two-year contract he signed in 1966.

He said that the 49ers told him before he signed they would work out a trade, but now say Washington is "offering only trash for me."

"I read that Otto Graham, the Washington general manager, says he would like to have me but that the 49ers want too much for me."

"I am not a holdout and I am not 'playing' out my option because you can't sit' out the option year; you have to 'play' it out by joining the team. I had to 'retire'."

Essentially Wins At Scioto Downs COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Essentially upset favorite Tilcan by a nose in the featured $1,500 trot at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.

Owned and driven by Joe Franklin of Greenville, the 4-year-old mare moved out from south place at the end of the stretch to post her fifth victory of the year in 2:06 2-5.

Essentially returned $19.60, $6 and $3.80. Tilcan paid $3 and $2.80, while Darby Mite was worth $3.80 to show.

The judges declared the sixth race no contest when the grandstand lights went out as the field neared the head of the stretch.

Lulu Sabotin Holds Golf Lead MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—Lulu Sabotin, the Warren fire captain and two-time former champ, holds the lead by one stroke today at the half-way mark of the 35th Ohio Publix Golf Tournament.

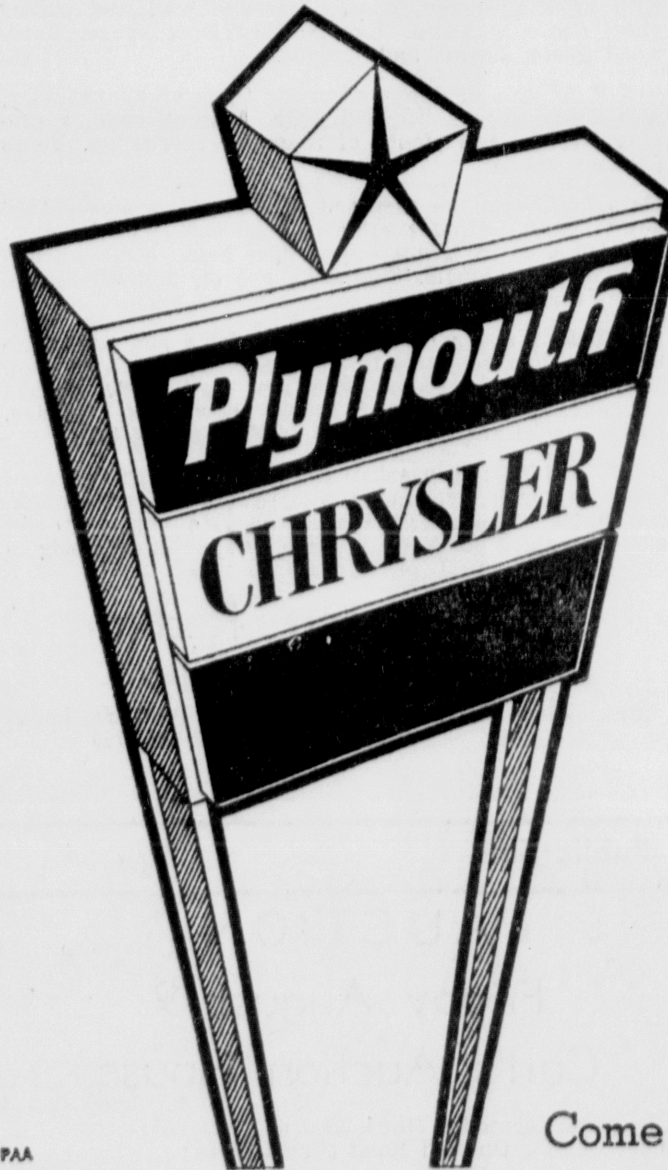

Sabotin added a two-under-par 70 Wednesday to his 67 opening round for a 139, one stroke out on Jim Musille of Mansfield, who came on strong the second day.

Ohio Little League Clash Postponed PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The championship game in the Ohio Little League Tournament was postponed by rain Wednesday with Fairborn leading South Akron 5-0 in the bottom of the second inning.

Play was to resume this afternoon at Allard Park in suburban Scioto ville.

Green Bay Packers Still Strong

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Phil Bengtson is a man on the spot.

For the new Green Bay Packers' coach, there seems to be only one way to go, and that's down. But the sages who are predicting the demise of the Packers aren't taking into consideration Bengtson's philosophy. He believes in the status quo.

"We won't be satisfied with anything less than No. 4," Bengtson says, referring to the Packers' three consecutive National Football League championships.

Vince Lombardi stepped out of the coaching post after leading the Packers to six NFL titles and to two consecutive Super Bowl crowns. In nine years, Lombardi's teams won 141 games, lost 89 and tied four, including both preseason and postseason clashes.

Bengtson, who came to Green Bay with Lombardi as his top assistant, has been the quiet man in the background who has shaped the vaunted Packer defense. Last season, the Pack led the NFL in seven defensive categories, not to mention over-all team defense.

Willie Davis, 6-foot-3 and 245 pounds, and Lionel Aldridge, 6-4 by 245, anchor the defensive line. Ron Kostelnik at 6-4, 240, and Henry Jordan, 6-3, 250, provide an agile, mobile and hostile interior.

6-5, 240, will get a shot at tight end.

The linebackers, considered the finest trio in football, are Dave Robinson, 6-3 and 245; Ray Nitschke, 6-3, 240, and Lee Roy Caffey, 6-3, 250.

Both Herb Adderly, 6-1, 210, starting his eighth year, and six-year veteran Bob Jeter, 6-1, 205, have been All-Pro picks at cornerback. Willie Wood, 5-10, 190, is another All-NFL performer at safety, aided by five-year veteran Tom Brown, 6-1, 190.

Offensively, the Packers are just as strong.

Quarterback Bart Starr has no peers. Even in what admittedly was an off-year in 1967, Starr completed 54.3 per cent of his passes for 1,823 yards and nine touchdowns.

In last week's College All-Star Game, Starr hit 17-of-23, including 10 in a row, and was "unusually sharp," according to Bengtson.

When injuries slowed the former Alabama star, 13-year vet Zeke Bratkowski came off the bench and did his usual competent job.

With super back Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor no longer around, super brats Donny Anderson, 6-3, 215, and Jim Grabowski, 6-2, 220, took up the slack. Grabowski and running back Elijah Pitts, 6-1, 203, showed no signs of last year's injuries in the All-Star contest.

Bengtson can also call on full-backs Ben Wilson and Chuck Mercein and speedster Travis

Williams, better known as The Road Runner. Last season, Williams returned four kickoffs for touchdowns, including two against the Cleveland Browns in a single quarter.

Up front, where it counts, Bob Hyland, 6-5, 250, and Ken Bowman, 6-3, 235, will battle it out for the center spot. Whoever wins will be flanked by All-Pro Jerry Kramer, 6-3, 245, and Gale Gillingham, 6-3 by 235, at guards. Bill Lueck, 6-3, 235, also a first-round draft pick, is bidding for a backup spot at guard.

The tackle positions will be manned by Bob Skoronski, 6-3,

250, and 12-year veteran Forrest Gregg, 6-4, 250.

If Starr chooses to move through the air, he can utilize the talents of veteran split end Boyd Dowler, 6-5, 230; flanker Carroll Dale, 6-2, 200; their replacement, Bob Long, 6-3, 190, or tight end Marv Fleming.

Then there's the Packer pride, that intangible that separates champions from second-place finishers.

"There's only one way to go," Bengtson says. "Four in a row. It's unheard of, but I see no reason why we can't continue winning."

Real Donnybrook Breaks Out During Mets-Astros Game

HOUSTON (AP) — "If Harry Walker had kept his mouth shut, nothing would have happened," said New York Mets' Manager Gil Hodges.

That's what Hodges claimed caused a lulu of a brawl in the fourth inning of Wednesday night's game between the Mets and the Houston Astros.

The Astros won the game 4-3, but the fist fights apparently ended in a draw.

Hodges' crew should have known keeping Walker, the talkative Houston skipper, quiet is near to impossible.

The ruckus erupted when the Astros' Doug Rader tripped to left center off Tom Seaver, steamed into third base with a hard slide and popped up quickly.

As Rader came up, his drawn-up right elbow came in contact with the right side of Mets' third baseman Kevin Collins' face. The Mets' rookie was flattened.

With Collins lying on the field, his teammates poured out of the dugout. Joe Pignatano, a hefty Mets' coach, and Rader engaged in a shouting match. They tried to get at one another but were temporarily restrained.

By this time just about every one was out at the scene. For a

Tigers Top Tribe, 6-1; Campbell Hits

DETROIT (AP) — Dave Campbell's first major league hit, a two-run homer in the eighth inning of a 6-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, was like a tree falling in the forest and no one around to hear whether it made a noise.

His wife, Diane, was in the stands but her ecstasy was somewhat muffled by the shuffling feet of 30,402 fans heading for the exits following another sure Detroit Tigers victory.

Most were probably thinking about the Tigers' winning four straight games and extending their American League lead to 6½ games over Baltimore.

John Wyatt had mopped up the ninth inning of the suspended first game to insure a 5-2 Detroit victory in a game halted Tuesday night because of a 1 a.m. curfew.

There were larger thoughts than Campbell's first major league hit. Denny McLain would be going for victory No. 23 against the faltering Indians in the finale tonight.

Cleveland Manager Al Dark, who moves in mysterious ways, had jerked his ace pitcher, "Sudden Sam" McDowell after he pitched to only two batters in the first inning.

Detroit Manager Mayo Smith had removed starter Earl Wilson with the big right-hander working on a shutout in the seventh. Wilson has a sore knee.

Montreal's NL Franchise Endangered

MONTREAL (AP) — This city's volatile baseball situation was rocked late Wednesday night by the reported loss of a third financial backer of the new National League franchise.

Robert Irsay, a Chicago air-conditioning executive, was said to have pulled out his support, leaving still greater financial problems for city officials and remaining backers to solve.

A meeting is scheduled at 5 p.m. EDT this evening to search for those solutions.

The Montreal Gazette said Charles Bronfman of Montreal, another backer, said Irsay severed his financial connection with the franchise in a telegram to Bronfman.

Irsay would be the third backer to withdraw. J. Louis Levesque of Montreal and March Bougie of Montreal preceded him.

Bronfman told the newspaper he got Irsay's telegram before a four-hour meeting Wednesday in Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's office attended by Warren Giles, president of the league, city officials and two Canadian sponsors of the Montreal franchise.

Contents of the telegram, Bronfman said were kept secret from all but those who attended the meeting. He divulged the telegram's content only after being told of comments Irsay is said to have made in Chicago Wednesday to Chicago newspapers and radio stations.

Williams, better known as The Road Runner. Last season, Williams returned four kickoffs for touchdowns, including two against the Cleveland Browns in a single quarter.

Up front, where it counts, Bob Hyland, 6-5, 250, and Ken Bowman, 6-3, 235, will battle it out for the center spot. Whoever wins will be flanked by All-Pro Jerry Kramer, 6-3, 245, and Gale Gillingham, 6-3 by 235, at guards. Rain Washes Out Junior Golf Tilt
FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Rain canceled Wednesday's final round of the scheduled 36-hole Ohio Junior Golf Tournament and officials decided to let Tuesday's 18-hole scores stand as final.

Mike Strathman of Findlay won the age 16-19 division with his one-under-par 71 on the Findlay Country Club course.

In last week's College All-Star Game, Starr hit 17-of-23, including 10 in a row, and was "unusually sharp," according to Bengtson.

When injuries slowed the former Alabama star, 13-year vet Zeke Bratkowski came off the bench and did his usual competent job.

With super back Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor no longer around, super brats Donny Anderson, 6-3, 215, and Jim Grabowski, 6-2, 220, took up the slack. Grabowski and running back Elijah Pitts, 6-1, 205, showed no signs of last year's injuries in the All-Star contest.

Bengtson can also call on fullbacks Ben Wilson and Chuck Mercein and speedster Travis

Williams, better known as The Road Runner. Last season, Williams returned four kickoffs for touchdowns, including two against the Cleveland Browns in a single quarter.

Up front, where it counts, Bob Hyland, 6-5, 250, and Ken Bowman, 6-3, 235, will battle it out for the center spot. Whoever wins will be flanked by All-Pro Jerry Kramer, 6-3, 245, and Gale Gillingham, 6-3 by 255, at guards. Bill Lueck, 6-3, 235, also a first-round draft pick, is bidding for a backup spot at guard.

The tackle positions will be manned by Bob Skoronski, 6-3,

250, and 12-year veteran Forrest Gregg, 6-4, 250.

If Starr chooses to move through the air, he can utilize the talents of veteran split end Boyd Dowler, 6-5, 230; flanker Carroll Dale, 6-2, 200; their replacement, Bob Long, 6-3, 190, or tight end Marv Fleming.

Then there's the Packer pride, that intangible that separates champions from second-place finishers.

"There's only one way to go," Bengtson says. "Four in a row. It's unheard of, but I see no reason why we can't continue winning."

Real Donnybrook Breaks Out During Mets-Astros Game

HOUSTON (AP) — "If Harry Walker had kept his mouth shut, nothing would have happened," said New York Mets' Manager Gil Hodges.

That's what Hodges claimed caused a lulu of a brawl in the fourth inning of Wednesday night's game between the Mets and the Houston Astros.

The Astros won the game 4-3, but the fist fights apparently ended in a draw.

Hodges' crew should have known keeping Walker, the talkative Houston skipper, quiet is near to impossible.

The rhubarb erupted when the Astros' Doug Rader tripped to left center off Tom Seaver, steamed into third base with a hard slide and popped up quickly.

As Rader came up, his drawn-up right elbow came in contact with the right side of Mets' third baseman Kevin Collins' face. The Mets' rookie was flattened.

With Collins lying on the field, his teammates poured out of the dugout. Joe Pignatano, a hefty Mets' coach, and Rader engaged in a shouting match. They tried to get at one another but were temporarily restrained.

By this time just about every one was out at the scene. For a moment all was quiet.

"But Harry came out and yelled, 'He didn't do it on purpose,'" Hodges said. "We all knew that wasn't so."

Walker insisted his intentions were those of a peace negotiator, but the Mets failed to get the message.

Pignatano appeared to shove at Walker and the battle was on. Individual battles broke out all over the place.

Tigers Top Tribe, 6-1; Campbell Hits

DETROIT (AP) — Dave Campbell's first major league hit, a two-run homer in the eighth inning of a 6-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, was like a tree falling in the forest and no one around to hear whether it made a noise.

His wife, Diane, was in the stands but her ecstasy was somewhat muffled by the shuffling feet of 30,402 fans heading for the exits following another sure Detroit Tigers victory.

Most were probably thinking about the Tigers' winning four straight games and extending their American League lead to 6½ games over Baltimore.

John Wyatt had mopped up the ninth inning of the suspended first game to insure a 5-2 Detroit victory in a game halted Tuesday night because of a 1 a.m. curfew.

There were larger thoughts than Campbell's first major league hit. Denny McLain would be going for victory No. 23 against the faltering Indians in the finale tonight.

Cleveland Manager Al Dark, who moves in mysterious ways, had jerked his ace pitcher, "Sudden Sam" McDowell after he pitched to only two batters in the first inning.

Detroit Manager Mayo Smith had removed starter Earl Wilson with the big right-hander working on a shutout in the seventh. Wilson has a sore knee.

Montreal's NL Franchise Endangered

MONTREAL (AP) — This city's volatile baseball situation was rocked late Wednesday night by the reported loss of a third financial backer of the new National League franchise.

Robert Isray, a Chicago air conditioning executive, was said to have pulled out his support, leaving still greater financial problems for city officials and remaining backers to solve.

A meeting is scheduled at 5 p.m. EDT this evening to search for those solutions.

The Montreal Gazette said Charles Bronfman of Montreal, another backer, said Isray severed his financial connection with the franchise in a telegram to Bronfman.

Isray would be the third backer to withdraw. J. Louis Levesque of Montreal and March Bougie of Montreal preceded him.

Bronfman told the newspaper he got Isray's telegram before a four-hour meeting Wednesday in Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's office attended by Warren Giles, president of the league, city officials and two Canadian sponsors of the Montreal franchise.

Contents of the telegram, Bronfman said were kept secret from all but those who attended the meeting. He divulged the telegram's content only after being told of comments Isray is said to have made in Chicago Wednesday to Chicago newspapers and radio stations.

Rain Washes Out Junior Golf Tilt
FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Rain canceled Wednesday's final round of the scheduled 36-hole Ohio Junior Golf Tournament and officials decided to let Tuesday's 18-hole scores stand as final.

Mike Strathman of Findlay won the age 16-19 division with his one-under-par 71 on the Findlay Country Club course.

View of Village Rebuilding After Spring Disaster

In only a few hours the rampaging Salt Creek wrought havoc upon Laurelville from which the village still has not completely recovered. It will be several more months before the hamlet at the crossroad to the Hocking Hills is rebuilt. Until that time the citizens go about the hard, unglamorous and little publicized job of rebuilding their homes and community.

WORKING ON PARK—These youngsters, from the neighborhood youth corps, are busy rebuilding the village park. Here they fill holes left in the road through the park.

LAUREL RUN BRIDGE — Construction of a bridge over Laurel Run, at the north end of Laurelville, is presently underway. The original structure was destroyed by the spring flood.

By JOHN PURCELL
Herald Staff Writer

Disaster agencies have left. The national publicity, turmoil and sense of emergency has passed and Salt Creek has become a tranquil little stream running past Laurelville.

But signs of the nightmare brought on by the spring floods which ravaged this village of 600 and caused more than a quarter million dollars damage, are still visible.

Streets and buildings are yellow where mud and clay were washed against them by the high water which covered half the village.

Sandbags, now high and dry, form a 12-foot high wall along the levee breached by the flood.

THE creek once picturesquely lined with old trees and bushes, has been stripped of anything that might hamper the flow of water. Trees have been cut on the banks and the bed of the stream has been cleared and widened.

Reconstruction and rehabilitation of village facilities, with the support of a $40,000 federal loan, is presently planned. Work must be done on village streets, sewers, water system and enlarging of the flood levee.

Work of rebuilding is now under the supervision of George Reed. But from the time of the flood until recently, Claude Chilcote supervised the village reconstruction program.

Local residents are hard at work repairing and repainting their homes, contractors rebuild bridges such as the one on Route 180 over Laurel Run and a neighborhood youth corps group works on public buildings and property.

Depression and despondency is still etched on the faces of many. But as the village approaches its pre-flood condition the people are becoming more cheerful.

Mention of the flood brings a grim laugh now; and a show of determination to rebuild what has been destroyed.

VILLAGERS showed their ability to work together at the time of the disaster and they are still demonstrating that ability.

Recovery from the blow dealt by the flood is months away for this little village of the northern Hocking Hills, but recovery is being made — slowly and constantly.

Skunks Ousted, But Make Mark

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — It took a policeman, the fire department and an animal control officer to dispossess five skunks from an apartment house shed.

Patrolman Steve Marshall tossed a tear gas grenade in their direction. The skunks vol-leyed back.

Ventilating fans in the apartment house picked up the fumes. Its seven residents, caught in the crossfire, beat a hasty retreat.

SANDBAG WALL — Sandbags still line the levee of Laurelville along Salt Creek. Under a loan being sought from the federal government the levee would be enlarged and strengthened.

REBUILDING HOMES — Homes as well as private property were destroyed or damaged in the flooding. Here workmen pour concrete for the base of a porch that was washed out by the high water.

Guilty on Two Counts in Court

A Kilbourne, O., man charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and driving with a suspended license topped Circleville Municipal Court's traffic docket Wednesday.

Harold Luther Young, 53, pleaded guilty to both charges. He was fined $150 and costs on the first offense, had his license suspended for three years and was placed in the county jail for three days.

For the second offense, Young was fined $300 and costs, was ordered to turn his auto plates over to the bailiff, had his driver's rights suspended for three years and was jailed for six months.

Half of the jail sentence was suspended. Circleville Police discovered that this was the third time Young had been charged with driving under a suspended license. Last month his license was taken away by a Delaware Court for driving under a suspended license and making an improper left turn.

In other court proceedings, Harold Wayne Gray, 25, Route 3, changed his plea of no contest to guilty on a charge of drag racing.

Gray was fined $50 and costs, had his license taken away for 30 days and was handed a suspended six month jail sentence.

Three out-of-county offenders forfeited bonds amounting to $103.

Park is a graduate of Chillicothe High School, received a bachelor's degree from Olivet College and graduate majors from Marshall University and Ohio University where he is presently enrolled in the doctorate program.

Park is the father of two sons, Robert, 21, with the U. S. Air Force and Joseph, 16, a high school junior. His wife is the former Nellie Wagner of Chillicothe. His mother, Mrs. R. E. Park resides in Chillicothe at 508 E. Second St.

Thief Is Locked In Man's Closet

BOSTON (AP) — Charles Wong looked out his apartment window and saw a thief taking the wheels off his car.

Wong sent his two sons to block the end of the street, then went to the car, and without saying anything about his ownership, invited the man to wait up in the Wong apartment.
